Senate Foreign Relations Committee Seeks Conference With President

WILSON INSISTS NO CHANGES

Senate Committee Decides to Call Advisors Who Resigned at Paris

Not to Call House, Bliss and White—Borah and Johnson Would Cut League

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—After a two-hour discussion today the senate foreign relations committee decided to notify President Wilson that it would call on him at the White house at his convenience, to discuss the peace treaty.

The committee also decided to call before it, E. T. Williams, S. K. Hornbeck and William A. Bullitt, who resigned as advisors to the American peace commission at Paris because, it had been reported they disagreed with decisions by the conference.

A motion to call also Col. House, Gen. Bliss and Henry White, American delegates to the peace conference, was voted down, 9 to 8. Senators McCumber, North Dakota and Harding, Ohio, republicans, voting with the democrats.

In deciding to request a conference with President Wilson, on which there was no committee vote, it was agreed that all information secured from the president should be made public.

There is no indication at the White house when the president would receive the committee. To inquire Secretary Tumulty said: "We have no comment to make."

Pres. Wilson Firm

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—While gratified that the senate foreign relations committee has decided to speed up consideration of the peace treaty, President Wilson, it is said, had not receded from his position against reservations.

TODAY'S RAIN GOOD FOR PARCHED SOIL

Farmers and market gardeners of Lowell and vicinity welcomed today's rain with unalloyed joy and cared not a particle whether the weather forecasters characterized it as intermittent showers, nor'easter or just plain every day rain. They were perfectly content to sit indoors and watch the parched land drink it in and as the drops fell, at times they seemed to grow as large and shiny as freshly coined silver dollars.

To those who toil by day within the confines of brick walls, rain is but commonplace and holds no place in the mind except to create a feeling of discomfiture and general grumpiness when one is forced to step out in it. It means wet feet and bedraggled skirts and sundry other conditions the ordinary human gladly would forego and in answer to the cheery expression from a fellow-worker to the effect that "the farmers need it," the usual reply is: "Yes, I suppose so."

It has not been generally known in the city just how badly the tilted ground roundabout needed today's rain. The corn's growth had stagnated for some time and if it had not come soon what promised to be a healthy crop would have receded out to an inconsequential harvest.

But the moisture has fallen and may well continue for another day without causing a flood or over-saturation that growth. Not so, we have heard from friends in this vicinity that many timber pieces shot up a foot or more during the past week. The new highways built today would have a miserable dry dock.

No Eulogy or Pall Bearers—Body Reposed in Plain Casket

LENOX, Aug. 14.—The funeral of Andrew Carnegie was held at Shadow Brook, his summer home in the Berkshires today. There was no eulogy and there were no pall bearers.

The service was as simple as the taste and habits of the man in life. Fully one half of the 60 persons present were members of the household. The others were intimates of the family.

The ritual of the Presbyterian church was used by the officiating clergyman, Dr. William P. Merrill of the Brick Presbyterian church. Fifth av-

CARMEN DISSATISFIED

Will Favor Rejection of 12 Per Cent Increase, Says Pres. Powers

The local street railway men are very much dissatisfied with the 12 per cent wage increase awarded to Bay State carmen by the war labor board, and at a special meeting to be held later are expected to vote to reject the award. President Thomas Powers of the local union bitterly attacked the finding and cited several instances in cities smaller than Lowell where the men are drawing larger pay.

Pres. Powers said that the men did not expect to get as much as the Boston carmen, but felt that they should

KOLCHAK FORCES RETREATING

Continue to Retire in Ural Mountains—Big Advance for Bolsheviks

Reds Seek to Cut Off Cosacks From Main Body of Kolchak's Forces

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The retreat in the Ural mountains of the forces of Admiral Kolchak continues, according to news received here today. South of Uralsk, at the southern end of the Urals, the Bolsheviks have driven the Cosacks back 60 miles and are endeavoring to separate them from the main body of the Kolchak forces.

The Kolchak forces are fighting on both sides of the trans-Siberian railway.

East of Cheliabinsk, a junction point on the railway and Shadrinsk, the Bolsheviks have reached the line of the Miass and Isset rivers and captured Tiumen, just east of the Russian-Siberian border. The advices add that there is no sign that the Bolshevik advance is likely to be checked.

The general position of Admiral Kolchak and his government is not believed to be materially impaired by the Bolshevik advance, and barring an unexpected collapse, the munitions America is sending, should arrive in Siberia in time to aid in his recovery.

Nevertheless it is admitted here that the reverses suffered by Admiral Kolchak are a serious blow to the policy of the entente in Russia.

Better news has been received from south Russia, where General Petrukh, the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevik leader, is progressing rapidly toward Kiok, with a view to cutting the railways southward toward Odessa, which probably have to be evacuated by the soviet forces. The Russian volunteer troops under General Denikine are closing in on Odessa from the northeast and the east, and it is believed that the whole black sea coast will soon be out of Bolshevik hands.

SHOE STRIKERS ARE SUMMONED

Officials of Allied Shoe Workers' Union Ordered to Appear in Court

Federal Shoe Company Petitions for Injunction—Strikers Will Fight Case

The latest development in the strike of shoe workers of this city took place this morning when Deputy Sheriff F. A. artley, acting for Farley and Tierney, counsel for the Federal Shoe Co., called at the quarters of the Allied Shoe Workers' Union in Middle street and served papers on officials of the union, ordering them to appear at the superior court to be held at East Cambridge, Tuesday, Aug. 19, and there show cause why an injunction should not be issued against the union.

The papers were served at the request of the H. H. Maklinney Co., better known as the Federal Shoe Co., in endeavor to restrain the union members from interfering with the company by intimidating, threatening, or annoying persons in the employ of the said company, also to restrain them from congregating around the plant of the company, or in other words from doing picket duty about the shop.

Those who were served papers, or who are named as respondents in the case are as follows: John E. MacCallum, George Racine, Charles Racine, Alme Perigay, Joseph Sadoeska, Michael Driscoll, Fred Baril, Jeremiah Donovan, Howard Wright, Graydon A. Carr, Thomas F. Hannafin and Fred Gillis.

Business Agent George Racine, commenting on the action of the company this morning, stated that the strikers have done some picketing around the plant, but he says everything was done legally. He stated that before any action was taken as far as picketing was concerned, the chief of police was consulted, and the men acted according to his instructions. "We have retained counsel," he said, "and will fight the case."

It was learned this morning that some of the strikers from the L. H. Spaulding company, held a conference with Mr. Spaulding yesterday afternoon relative to returning to work this morning. The union officials claim that Mr. Spaulding offered a slight increase in wages to his men if they returned and promised to deal with their shop committee, but refused to recognize the union. The matter was brought to the attention of the strikers at a meeting held last evening and the vote was in favor of remaining away from the shop until the strikers demand that of collective bargaining and recognition of the union be granted. Another conference was held this afternoon.

This bulletin, the communication adds, will contain the exact weight of containers of different articles which the postmaster must know before he can start clerks figuring on how much postage to charge on orders from different storage depots. This will require a great deal of work, because the weight of each type of container probably will differ materially, post office officials believe.

Housewives can order just as many cans of these foodstuffs, which will contain almost everything that can be canned that appears in a well stocked larder, as they desire, and it is also believed that small orders will be received as well as large. The prices will be the lowest that Uncle Sam can arrange, plus the parcel post rates to the nearest supply station, which in the case of Lowell people, will probably be the army base in South Boston. The mail man will take the order on his daily rounds, once the sale opens and Uncle Sam does the rest.

Several local housewives have already made up and telephoned in their orders, asking Mr. Meehan to place them on file until the sale is opened, so that they will be sure of having them filled at the earliest possible moment, but the postmaster is unable to take these orders until the sale has commenced.

The parcel post at the local post office is feeling the burden of the railroad strike to a great extent, due to the partial embargo on out-going freight shipments in the city, but up to the present has risen to the emergency and is handling the increased business with efficiency and dispatch.

A largely attended meeting of the various committees interested in the reception to the fighting sons of the "Acre" was held at the Broadway Social and Athletic club last evening, with James F. Healin, chairman of the general committee, in the chair.

All sub committees reported progress, and the committee in charge of the midway, announced that John Clancy would be in charge of all concessions. It is planned to make the midway one of the features of the affair and already plans are underway to set up many novel features.

It was also decided to engage a large hand for the affair. Several of the war veterans have been recruited to address the gathering. All other details in connection with the reception are moving along satisfactorily, and it is expected that the full program will be announced at the next meeting.

EVERYTHING READY FOR FISHWAY WORK

Simon B. Harris, chairman of the Lowell Fish and Game association, has received official notice of the granting of the contract for the construction of the fishway at Lawrence and it is understood that simultaneously with the construction of the fishway in that city, the Locks and Canals company will install a fishway at the Pawtucket dam in this city. Migratory fish will then have "clear sailing" from the sea to the spawning grounds in the upper waters of the Merrimack river.

Work on the fishways will be begun as soon as possible and it is not too much to say at this time that the restoration of the fishways is due to the good work and untiring efforts of the Lowell Fish and Game association, particularly its legislative committee. This committee left no stone unturned in the instruction and enlightenment of legislators and the fish and game commission.

When the association first broached the subject, the fish and game commissioners allowed that it would be a case of labor lost; that the salmon, once so plentiful in the Merrimack river, would not return to plow their way through a stream polluted and defiled by dye substances and other wastes from the mills. But the Lowell Fish and Game commission kept on plugging and finally one of the commissioners went to the Pacific coast and found that rivers there on which many mills were situated were fairly teeming with salmon. The secret was contained in the fact that these rivers were supplied with the necessary fishways to assist the salmon in negotiating the falls. The pollution from the mills did not offend the salmon's "aesthetic" tastes. All the assistance the salmon wanted in reaching the spawning grounds was a lift over the falls.

Well, anyway, the commissioner in question came back to Massachusetts a convert to the belief of the Lowell Fish and Game association that the pollution from the mills along the Merrimack river would not prevent the return of the salmon providing the necessary fishways were installed, and there is every reason to believe that these will be installed before the late fall.

The Sun has taken a more or less active part in the work of bringing about the restoration of the fishways, believing with President Harris and other members of the Lowell Fish and Game association that after being restocked and the fishways installed, the Merrimack would come into its own as a salmon river. And The Sun was very pleased to receive today from the chairman of the legislative committee of the Lowell Fish and Game association a letter of appreciation for its assistance in the fishway project.

The following is a copy of the letter received by Chairman Harris of the association from Chairman Adams of the Fish and Game association:

Boston, August 13, 1919.
Simon B. Harris, Esq., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Yesterday afternoon late at a meeting of the board of directors it was voted to accept the bid of George T. Seabury, Inc., 44 Washington street, Providence, R. I., to construct the fishway around the dam of the Essex company at Lawrence.

The bid of this company was $23,455.90 and was the lowest bid received.

Mr. George T. Seabury, the head of the company, has impressed us very favorably, and he brings to the work a very large practical experience.

We notified him yesterday afternoon of the action of the board, and instructed him to get started on the work at the earliest possible date.

It is needless to say that we will put forth every effort to get the fishway built before the period of high water.

It will be a very great satisfaction to us, as we know it will be to you, when the fishway becomes a reality.

With kind regards for a comfortable and prosperous summer, we are Very truly yours,

WILLIAM ADAMS,
Chairman.

IF THIN AND NERVOUS, TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Ultra-Phosphate to Put on Flax, Healthy Flesh
and to Increase Strength, Vital and Nerve Force.

When one stops to consider the host of thin people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions, it is only out of pity for the rounding up of potential angles with the attendant bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in print.

While excessive flesh might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals it is a well-known fact that the lack of sufficient phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. Experiments on humans and animals by many scientists have demonstrated beyond question of doubt that a body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and thin. A noted author and professor in his book, "Chemistry and Food Nutrition," published in 1912, says: "that the amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of man is seriously under-estimated in many of our standard text books."

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate known as Ultra-Phosphate. Through the assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue the phosphoric content when absorbed in the amount normally required by nature soon produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nervous tension disappears, sleep and strength increase, healthiness and lack of angles and the whole body soon loses its nervous hollows and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to keep up and do. It is sold by A. W. Davis in Lowell and all good drug stores.

CAUTION:—While Ultra-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Adv.

CHARGES HUN GOLD USED TO DEFEAT LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Representative Hellin, democrat of Alabama, charged in the house yesterday that German money and munition money and manufacturers' money is back of preparations to defeat the League of Nations. He declared money by the thousands was being expended and newspapers purchased to poison public sentiment and that men had been hired to assassinate the league.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Senator King, democrat, Utah, introduced a resolution yesterday declaring the senate favored award of Thrace to Greece, with provision for Bulgarian commerce at Salona, Kavala and Dedeagatch, and that Constantinople, the coasts of the Sea of Marmora and the Gallipoli peninsula be a free state under the League of Nations. The resolution was referred without debate to the foreign relations committee.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A suit in equity to dissolve the "cement combination" was announced yesterday by Attorney General Palmer. The action is to be brought in the district of New Jersey against 19 individual companies.

In praying that the defendants be perpetually enjoined "from further engaging in combination and conspiracy," the government charges that by means of an unincorporated association supported by all on the pro-rata basis of business transacted, they undertook to restrict production to decrease the aggregate amount of cement under contract for future delivery, to maintain uniform prices and to advance prices about 200 per cent.

TO STOP SUGAR PROFITEERING

Dept. of Justice Expects to Reach Many Through License Regulations

Food Administration Officials Say Sugar Should Not be Over 11 Cents

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Through license regulations and the power of the food administration to procure the cancellation of licenses, the department of justice hopes to reach some cases of profiteering in sugar that would be more difficult to reach through enforcement of the criminal provisions of the food control act.

This position of the department was made plain in a circular sent to federal attorneys today, calling attention to the fact that food administration officials had taken the position that sugar should not retail for more than 11 cents a pound and that "where it is retailing for more, it indicates that either the wholesaler or retailer is making an unreasonable profit."

MORE

Attorney General Palmer said, however, that no price for sugar could be fixed by the government. He conferred today with Clarence E. Wilson, food administrator for the District of Columbia, about efforts to reduce prices in Washington. He also had a conference with F. C. Henderschott, secretary of the New York's fair price committee.

Mr. Palmer was to appear later today before the senate agriculture committee to explain amendments to the food control act, extending anti-profiteering sections to clothing and other necessities.

When the committee met today, senators expressed divided opinions as to the necessity for the legislation.

"If we amend this bill," said Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina. "it will mean we will include every article of commerce and put the commerce of America in the hands of the department of justice."

Senator Smith, democrat, Georgia, expressed doubt that congress had constitutional power to pass such legislation.

Amendment of the act so as to enable the government to prosecute profiteering in shoes was urged by Senator Randolph, democrat, Louisiana.

"With conditions as they now are over the country," said Senator Johnson, democrat, South Dakota, "amendments will not hurt this act, and I favor giving Mr. Palmer all the powers he asks to see if he can accomplish what we desire to have him accomplish."

NO DESIRE TO BE KING

BUDAPEST, Tuesday, Aug. 12.—(D. Associated Press)—Archduke Joseph told the correspondent today he had no desire to be king, but wanted to see the country tranquil.

"I would not move my little finger to be king," he said. "It is not true that I worked in collusion with the Rumanians to establish myself as head of the government. I have a real heart interest in the country. I want to see a parliament elected, after which the people's representatives can do what they like."

"I believe the socialists should be admitted to a relative share in the government. Hungary is an agricultural country and not communist in sentiment. The socialists told me they did not wish to see me king. I explained I was not seeking such a position but wanted a parliament to settle everything."

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE ALUMNI OUTING

The eighth annual outing for the members of St. Joseph's college alumni was held this afternoon at the Genoa club house in Tyngsboro and despite the inclement weather the attendance was quite large and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. There was some talk this morning about postponing the event on account of the rain, but this plan was abandoned after it was learned that it would be impossible to secure the outing grounds until next October.

The excursionists, numbering about 100, gathered at the college in Merrimack street at 12:30 o'clock and a half hour later they boarded two automobile trucks and speeded to the neighboring town. Baseball games and sporting events were out of the question, so the afternoon was spent in the clubhouse and indoor sports were indulged in. In the course of the afternoon refreshments were served and later the annual election of officers was held. The affair was in the hands of the officers of the association, who are as follows: John B. Richard, president; Napoleon Niles Jr., vice president; Arthur H. Giroux, secretary; Dewey G. Archambault, assistant secretary; Willis J. Peltier, treasurer; Michael Malhot, Ernest L'Heureux, Arthur Brunelle, Nephtali Letendre and Rev. Bro. Pierre Vincent, directors.

14 PERSONS ARE BITTEN BY DOG

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 14.—Fourteen persons were bitten by a collie dog while in the vicinity of Atwells avenue yesterday. After an exciting chase by policemen of the 11th and 6th precincts the animal was killed with a bullet by Patrolman Paul A. King on Acorn street.

The head of the dog will be examined and arrangements are being made by the health department to have each one of those attacked by the dog take the pasteur treatment at the Providence City hospital.

The dog ran wild for more than an hour, frothing at the mouth and snapping at everyone who crossed its path. In nearly every instance the victims were bitten on the wrist or arm.

VIENNA, Tuesday, Aug. 12. NEW ORDERS SENT TO BUDAPEST

PARIS, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—The supreme council today sent additional instructions to the inter-allied military commission at Budapest. It is understood that the mission was advised that orders should not be given to the commanders of the Rumanian army, but that members of the mission should hold themselves in readiness to confer with Rumanian officials preparatory to an adjustment of the situation.

DEFINITE REPLY FROM RUMANIANS

VIENNA, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Alfred military representatives conferred at Budapest today with representatives of the Rumanian and Hungarian governments. It is believed that a crisis is imminent and that the Rumanians must give a definite reply to the peace conference note of August 7 without further delay.

THE STRAND

The story of "The Paper God," the latest film creation in which H. B. Warner, the eminent English actor appears for the first time today at The Strand, is woven about a plot of the Tong, planning a revolution in Mongolia. When the American American clerk at the office of the English consul, apparently falls in love with Tai Hing, a half-caste Oriental Cleopatra, one of the leaders of the Tong, who tries to live at the Chinese Chantung, the interior of Mongolia, and becomes a hatchetman among the Tong, the American consul and Beryl Addison Bruce's sweet heart became suspicious, believing he had fallen in love with the object of Tai Hing, and was helping to foment trouble. How Bruce discovered the secret of the Jade Buddha, a small idol, and exposed the leaders of the revolution, she is in drama of suspense and exciting comedy. The closing climax is a real thriller. Mr. Warner is said to be even better than he was in "The Man Who Turned White," which was shown recently at the Strand.

"The Unifier," a comedy-drama starring May Allison is a birth-provoking and delightful story full of unusual and complicated situations that can hardly be described. The play was adapted from the story of the same name written by Will Irvin in the Saturday Evening Post. It tells of the adventures of Horstene Troutt, a dissatisfied stenographer, who wants to marry the rich John, who wants her to become a "comrade" in name and "servant" in reality to a clique of long-haired men and short-haired women who dress themselves the "un-American" way. The play is witty and well-played and the romance which is interwoven lies close to the heart. You'll like it.

The latest comedy and a new week-long musical comedy songs by Rose McNamee at the Strand will add greatly to the worth of the bill. Watch the pony contest.

$223,000 IN LIBERTY BONDS STOLEN

N.Y., Aug. 14.—Liberty bonds valued at $223,000 were stolen Tuesday from two brokerage firms in the financial district here, it was learned at police headquarters late yesterday. The stolen bonds in each instance had been entrusted to messengers who have disappeared.

Richard Whitney & Co. were the victims of the larger theft. This firm dispatched a messenger with $178,000 worth of bonds to the office of Kidder, Peabody & Co., brokers. The bonds consisted mostly of victory notes, although among them were some of the earlier issues. The messenger, a boy, did not deliver the bonds.

The other theft was from Simmons & Slade, whose loss was $45,000 in Liberty bonds of the second issue.

They were stolen under circumstances similar to those under which the bonds of Whitney & Co. were taken.

The messenger in whose possession they had been placed disappeared after he had been instructed to deliver them to the office of another broker.

At the police commissioner's office it was stated that the messenger who was entrusted with the $45,000 Liberty bonds by Simmons & Slade had a "record" of similar thefts here of $22,000 in Liberty bonds, for which he was brought back from Los Angeles last April and given a suspended sentence.

Both messengers were under bonds of a surety company.

LOWELL TAX BILLS ONLY CLUE TO IDENTITY

OLDTOWN, Me., Aug. 14.—A man found prostrated from the heat in the road near this city several weeks ago died in a local hospital yesterday. He was evidently a Polish woodsman, about 55 years old. The only clue to his identity are some tax bills from the city of Lowell, Mass., made out to Stefan Paszenski. Nothing is known of his relatives.

IRISH MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT HELD

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—Peter Galligan, member of parliament from the west division of Cavan, who was court-martialed on a charge of illegal drilling of troops and the inciting of mobs against police officers in connection with his activities as a Sinn Fein leader, has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment at hard labor.

LAND IS WAY DOWN, BUILDING WAY UP; EXPERT TELLS WHY

BY EDWARD P. H. TROY
(Compiler of the Public Ownership Handbook.)

Why is the market value of land naturally falling to half what it was during "dull" times, while at the same time industry generally is humming, wages of labor are steadily rising and returns on capital are at a high water mark?

Here is something for everyone to ponder whether or not he owns land or expects to acquire any. Especially should it interest legislators and tax boards.

A good many land speculators are getting rid of city lots at unheard-of prices. They know that the increased cost of building material and labor must come out of land values, the only thing that is left. They are selling out as fast as they can before bottom prices are reached.

It has become an axiom that "land values are created by the footprints of the passerby." Many companies operating chains of stores will decide on a location for a new building only after taking an accurate count of the average number of persons daily passing that spot.

The income on improved city lots can be pretty accurately gauged in advance, being based on the site, the population and enterprise of the commonwealth.

Heretofore land, without any effort of capital or labor being applied to it, has absorbed into its value half the earning power of its location. This is called the "unearned increment." If the cost of a building exceeds what may remain of this earning power, the return will be adequate.

When the cost of building increases, the value of the land must be lowered to strike this average.

This may be like a kindergarten relationship between a good many land owners and builders, but indications today are that thousands of folk, confronted with housing and building problems, are not taking these facts into sufficient consideration.

Heretofore land has been most exacting in its toll from both capital and labor. But the tables are turning. Prices of land have fallen with a big thud, while the rewards of enterprise have begun to be fairly remunerative.

Unfortunately many uninformed legislators have adopted or are about to adopt tax laws tending to hamper industry and designed to inflate land values.

WOULD EXPELL R. R. STRIKERS

Expulsion of Striking Shopmen From International Union Threatened

President Demands Men Return to Work in Telegram to Chicago Leaders

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Expulsion of all striking railway shopmen from the international organization is threatened in a telegram from H. M. Jewell, president of the organization, to officials of the Chicago district council. A meeting of striking shopmen was called today to vote on the question of returning to work.

The telegram reads: "Make orders positive to all points. Now is the time to act. We cannot much longer delay, and if you refuse to comply, will be compelled to advise Illinois and Wilson, if necessary, that you do not belong to the organization. If negotiations are resumed strikers will be deprived of benefits."

Still Voting in New England

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Traffic conditions on New England railroads after today will depend largely on the result of the count of ballots cast by mechanics and shopmen who struck last Thursday and Friday for increased wages. Strike leaders said that the sentiment on the question of returning to work had been made uncertain by an apparent division of opinion between employees of the Boston & Maine railroad and those of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Co.

Boston & Maine strikers, who voted early in the week were told to oppose going back to work until their grievances had been adjusted, but there were indications that the New Haven men who voted yesterday and today favored the adoption of President Wilson's recommendation for an immediate return.

Tabulation of the votes cast on the New Haven lines was expected to be completed by noon and taken into the joint meeting of the executive boards in this city tonight. A report on the result was expected before midnight.

The sentiment of Boston & Albany road men who also have voted, has been carefully guarded as it has been agreed that the majority vote of two roads will govern the return of the third.

Strike leaders announced that a vote to return would send the men back Saturday, but that a majority expression to the contrary would add to the present railroad tangle by bringing out the shopmen and mechanics of the Central Vermont, Grand Trunk, Maine Central and the Bangor & Aroostook lines.

Railroad managers reported the freight situation as somewhat improved today by the modifications of embargoes made effective yesterday. They said that 70 per cent. of the accepted freight was being moved promptly, but that new restrictions should be expected again because of the depreciation of rolling stock. Passenger service schedules adopted Tuesday remained unchanged. Belief was expressed that even the return of the strikers by Saturday would not permit the resumption of normal service until Monday at least and then it would take several weeks to reduce the accumulation of freight reported from industrial centers and storehouses.

sale, failed to keep more than 100 for them to fall in readily with the prospective purchasers from lining up system in vogue today.

Many of the youngsters brought small wagons and carts to convey their purchases and there were any number of automobiles parked in the spacious yard in front of the workroom throughout the morning. There was hardly an electric car coming downtown that did not have its quota of purchasers.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson and Robert F. Marden, president of the local chapter of the Red Cross, were on hand bright and early to see that the sale got under way in a proper manner.

W. N. Goodell, the man in general charge of the sale, and Mrs. John K. Whittier, who directed the women volunteers, were also ready for the opening gun and when 9 o'clock rang every detail had been perfected.

Lieut. Martin Connors of the police department, Sergt. Hugh Maguire and several patrolmen were present to maintain order and keep the waiting line properly established. Several employees of the street and health department who were unable to work outside this morning owing to the storm, assisted in bringing the cases of food to the women who were assigned the task of making up orders for the customers and their services were greatly appreciated.

The Red Cross sales staff numbered fully half a hundred and the volunteers proved themselves capable saleswomen in the first hour or so of the sale. Mayor Thompson was well pleased with the large crowd present early in the morning and said that he did not anticipate it in view of the weather. The system of delivery was a little dilatory during the first rush quantities and the petty sales of 12 but this fault wore off as the morning progressed and by 11 o'clock the majority of the ma-grocery store were almost entirely missing.

No particular article of food was in especial demand. The purchasers seem to want to get a little of everything and to try out the meats and vegetables.

The 12-pound cans of bacon about which there had been a little resistance sold as rapidly as the other products.

Very few cases of "hogging" were noted during the morning. One man said he wanted to buy two dozen cans of each variety of food on the purchase readily acquiesced. The purpose of the sale was to give everybody a chance and not allow small dealers to stock up and sell the government food later at a big profit.

There were few purchases that did not amount to at least a dollar. On the whole, the food was sold in large quantities.

Those in charge of the sale were congratulating themselves that the affair was not being held on the South common as originally planned, because there is little doubt but what considerable damage would have been done to the food as well as to the volunteer salespeople.

What the situation would have been had it been pleasant is hard to say but speculations were freely made that the carload of food would not have lasted two hours. The ready response to the sale this morning despite the extremely inclement weather was creditable evidence that Lowell people want to buy the government's surplus food and will even suffer inconvenience to get it.

The Red Cross will turn over the money it receives from the sale to the city treasurer. The city must pay its bill by Aug. 22, a week from tomorrow, or ten days after the food was delivered here in Lowell.

ANOTHER NAVY RECRUIT

LABOR UNIONS WERE BITTERLY DENOUNCED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 14.—Although a majority of the delegates in the constitutional convention voted yesterday in favor of an amendment of the constitution which would prohibit the organization of labor unions among employees of any public service corporation, the proposal failed to muster the vote of two-thirds of the members and was accordingly defeated.

Existing industrial conditions occupied practically all of the attention of the convention on its final day. Every proposal for further amendment of the constitution, however, was defeated, the delegates apparently being intent upon winding up the work of the convention and getting home without delay.

Labor unions were bitterly denounced in two speeches, one by Albert E. Pillsbury, a former attorney general of the commonwealth, and the other by John D. W. Bodish, a blind delegate who hitherto has voted always with labor.

Delegate Pillsbury offered a resolution declaring unlawful "any combination of persons, or any action by such combination, or otherwise tending to interrupt or impair any public service or the operation of any public utility."

He declared that "the people are to-day subject to a tyranny compared to which that of George the Third was benevolence itself. The workingmen as a class have taken the public by the throat, and they threaten our very lives. I say they threaten our lives, because if we are to live we must have food, and to have food we must have transportation. It has become manifest that no public utility can be operated unless its officials yield to every demand of its employes, no matter how unjust they may be."

No matter what figure is offered for ice, additional sources of supply in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are confined to the small amounts that farmers harvested for their own use and which now are being hauled to nearest railroad stations by ox teams.

Some idea of the difference in the price of ice to the consumer in Lowell and in other towns may be gained from quoting the schedule now in effect in Peabody, where the price for smallest quantity is a cent a pound and for 25 to 100 pounds the price is 60 cents per 100. This is 100 per cent more than the prevailing price here.

Unless it cleaned the teeth, sweetened the mouth, and hardened the gums, would people of refinement for 70 years have used and enthusiastically recommended it?

Mr. Pillsbury took occasion to compliment Delegate Curtis of Boston who is police commissioner of this city, upon his determined stand against unionization of the police department, whereupon Delegate Moriarty admonished Curtis that anything he might start would be finished by somebody else. Curtis immediately accepted the challenge and declared that white he lion.

did not propose to discuss affairs of the Boston police department in the vote, had rejected an amendment of the Boston police department in the voice convention, he desired to inform the feds by Delegate Bodish, providing for compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes. Mr. Bodish declared that an emergency has developed which demands the attention of the convention. "We are in the midst of an Industrial war," he said, "which is rapidly approaching a dangerous situation. There is a constant struggle between employers and employees, which is causing hardship and suffering to many innocent persons, and the people have a right to look to us for relief. My sympathy has always been with labor, because my lot of necessity was cast with that class but I cannot follow them in their apparent determination to resort to unlimited force to gain ends which they fear cannot be attained by the presentation of facts and arguments."

President Bates announced that the convention has been in session 119 days. It has considered 319 matters, of which 22 were referred to the people, and all were adopted.

PLENTY ICE HERE AND PRICE REASONABLE

Although the ice situation in Massachusetts is considered exceedingly grave at present, with the possibility of an actual famine and greatly increased prices in many cities and towns throughout the commonwealth this fall, Lowell faces no such predicament and unless an unprecedented demand is made upon the Gage Co. during the autumn months, the prevailing price locally will not be raised and the present supply will adequately meet the needs.

This is substantially the statement made today by Miss Martha Gage who controls Lowell's ice business and although she is fully aware of the situation in other cities in the state, she does not feel that Lowell people need worry, either about the supply or the price. At the present time local ice consumers pay at the rate of 40 cents for 100 pounds, 25 cents for 50 pounds and 15 cents for 30 pounds, a schedule substantially lower than those in force in other places and which has been in vogue here since April.

Some idea of the difference in the price of ice to the consumer in Lowell and in other towns may be gained from quoting the schedule now in effect in Peabody, where the price for smallest quantity is a cent a pound and for 25 to 100 pounds the price is 60 cents per 100. CLAN GRANT OUTING

At a meeting of the members of Clan Grant, which was held last evening in Post 120 hall, routine business was transacted and the committee in charge of the outing to be held next Saturday, reported that everything was in readiness for the event. It was announced that at the next meeting Royal Chief A. G. Findlay of Seattle, Wash., will be in attendance and on that night a reception will be tendered the members of the organization who saw service in the world war.

Become Slender

A Simple, Guaranteed Method

If you would like to lose, weekly, from one to five pounds of badness, at while eating and drinking all you eat, also living life better than at present, just follow this advice:

Take seven deep breaths of fresh air each morning and evening; after each meal take a little tea of Lorain; eat all you need, but thoroughly, and follow other simple directions of the guaranteed Lorain system.

Men and women who were waddling around with heavy, sluggish bodies have, in many cases, reported remarkable and wonderful benefit to themselves and to their families. This is the way to become slender, attractive, vivacious, and altogether very easily. Get off of ketchup, mustard, drizzles, etc. Eat capsules, cones, etc., to use and do not eat at before-bed time. Weigh and measure yourself week to week. You can scarcely realize the joy that awaits you in toning up your body, giving it a normal symmetrical figure, with good health and longer life. ADVERTISING AND PROFITEERING

We hear a great deal about profiteering. Does anyone stop to realize that one of the agencies that fights against the evils of profiteering is the science of advertising?

Profiteering has a rather hard time when the stores of a community—particular good stores—are bidding for business by means of competitive ads. Each store manager dolls up his ad with cut rate specials. Sometimes buying advantageously, he cuts the prices of staples. After he has turned in his ad copy, he sits back and wonders if his competitor's ad will show prices lower than his. This is a "stumbling block" in the path of the profiteer. This is something that benefits the community as a whole and the working man in particular.

This should be taken seriously and regarded as an unassuming, modest but effective public service rendered by all such fine afternoon mediums as

THE SUN

Lowell's Greatest Newspaper

LODGE AGAIN

We live in a busy time and many of our wage earners will not have time to follow Senator Lodge's exhaustive account of the movement among nations to try to have a mutual agreement among themselves to secure peace, which he shows started even before the treaty of Utrecht at the beginning of the eighteenth century. Senator Lodge's address Tuesday was scholarly, earnest and instructive. Would they reject a plan before it is tested? The republican party cannot guarantee safety in all the things it sponsors. Let us get ready to live in peace among ourselves and with our neighbors. The League of Nations plan may not be a perfect idea. We reckon the only perfect thing in this man's world is the republican party but it's hard work squeezing in among the money bags. Our problem is a present day one. We cannot have very much interest in Senator Lodge trying to discredit President Wilson in preparation for the effort to try and defeat the democratic party next year.

PROGRESSIVE STREET BUILDING

With the streets of Lowell in their present deplorable condition, we cannot refrain from expressing a belief that such would not now be the case if a system of progressive building and repair had been in vogue during the past ten years. Such a system would mean that some ten years ago a commission had been appointed to investigate and then map out a progressive system of road building to cover a span of, say 15 years. The program of the commission, having been duly accepted by the council or governing board at that time, would be prominently placed before the public and just as prominently tacked up in the office of the commissioner of streets and highways and no matter who the incumbent might be, he should not swerve from the accepted course. The question of appropriations need not have been considered, but if the yearly amount were public knowledge no one man would be blamed if he failed to accomplish as much as his direct predecessor if his amount of money did not equal that apportioned to another. If elections caused the withdrawal of one man and the appointment of another, the new incumbent would have spent adequate time with the one leaving, thoroughly reviewing the work accomplished and in progress and immediately upon assuming office, himself, take up the burden where his predecessor laid it down. In the case of an instance arising when it seemed mandatory to vary the program to meet a real emergency, such could be done only through vote of the governing council. If that had been done ten years ago our streets would not resemble the battlefields of Flanders today, and what is more, such a system would entirely please the public that undoubtedly it would insist upon a renewal of the policy when its ten years of work ceased.

Senator Lodge tries to represent he is attacking the League of Nations. He has to attack the League of Nations plan in order to attack President Wilson. President Wilson is his political enemy. He is out to discredit the democratic party in every way he can but he is out to discredit President Wilson the most because he is more afraid of President Wilson than anyone else.

Like any other political demagogue fighting in the last ditch but fighting like a boy, Senator Lodge has taken advantage of his position in the senate to say to this full grown nation, "If you go forward with this League of Nations plan you stand to be in danger of this bogie man and that bogie man, both dangerous, and all of them to be feared."

Senator Lodge made no particular headway in pleading a return to real Americanism. George Cohan does the same thing more picturesquely and effectively by waving the American flag—and he gets people to pay to see him do it. The League of Nations plan doesn't encroach on our privileges as Americans. If it were adopted it is admitted that its terms guarantee us the right to enjoy our American privileges enumerated by invasion from a hostile European country.

The New York World checked up yesterday very neatly when it quoted a paragraph from an address Mr. Lodge made at Union College in June, 1915, nearly a year after the great war started and nearly four years before the covenant of the League of Nations became one of the most remarkable documents in all the history of diplomacy:

"Nations must unite as men unite in order to preserve peace and order. Two great nations must be so united as to be able to say to any single country, 'You must not go to war,' and they can say that effectively when the country desiring war knows that the force which the united nations place behind peace is irresistible."

EDWARD S. HOSMER

There is always so much of the spectacular and sacrificing in the lives of firemen that their passing from this life causes more than feeling thought. This is magnified a hundred fold in the life of Edward S. Hosmer, venerable chief of the Lowell department for 30 years and for more than half a century a fire fighter, which came to a close early Wednesday morning. His life stands as a splendid monument to success through devotion to duty and he will long linger in the memory of the men with whom he worked and came in contact. He was a true chief in the fullest meaning of the word wherein it typifies leadership and the efficiency of the department today is living result of his earlier efforts toward the formation of a closely knit, harmonious organization. In a large sense the responsibilities pressed upon the head of a city's fire fighting force are paralleled only in few instances throughout the personnel of a community organization. He must possess initiative and unfailing judgment and a personality strong enough to radiate to and attract every man under him. These Mr. Hosmer had in full measure.

A NEW AUTOCRACY?

Autocracy is recognized as an element of selfishness. An autocratic government, for instance, we know, is a government exploited for the material benefit of its rulers, the inner circle of despots.

So does this continue down through the line, in cataloging the breeds of autocracy until you come to capitalism. A capitalistic autocracy is autocracy working at its highest speed, grinding grist the finest, hooking the little fish and the big fish, not only "making the traffic carry all it will bear," but lashing the traffic. Capitalistic autocracy is greed and selfishness working on ball bearings.

True enough. But now has the thought occurred to us, that a nation might be managed by an autocracy of labor? When we speak of labor paramount we instantly think of highly organized labor. If labor were to be diverted into an autocracy of course it would be desired to accomplish it through its concentrated organization, which would be the unions. All of us cannot be capitalists. All of us cannot be members of a labor union. We used to think the capitalists were curbed and their rapaciousness would not menace us. Now we are confronted with this question: Have we an autocracy of labor? If we have, those of us who cannot belong to a union may need a defender.

It seems the submarine Bremen, sister undersea craft of the Deutschland, was captured by the British and her crew interned three years. Her fate was a mystery to the world and most of all to Germany. The Hun sailors had no idea of what had become of the Bremen and her crew and being Huns they feared the worst,—and were mistaken as usual.

Many newspapermen are trying to be funny at the expense of the actors now on strike in New York. They observe, among other alleged wit, if the players wonder if the ghost will ever walk again. Our feeble attempt is to observe that we suppose no ghost in the future will be recognized unless his card shows he is paid up and in good standing.

One of the interesting questions which arises when the proposition of policemen joining the A. F. of L. is considered, is what would they do if ordered by their superior officer to police a factory where labor troubles existed, and the federation ordered them to stay away? Many men have found it impossible to serve two masters. What luck would police officers have?

One of the assets of the old time New York Sun used to be, "if you see it in The Sun, it's so." It was a good axiom and was lived up to. In the present day, however, the reader of that estimable paper will do well to make a mental reservation when he reads a discussion of the League of Nations in the New York Sun. Many of its writers seem to be choleric on the subject.

Well, it developed at the investigation in Boston that some of the shoe men tried to make out that the high cost of shoes was due to the lavish buying of people in stocking up on shoes. We expected that sooner or later it would be discovered to be the consumer's fault that merchandise costs so much but we didn't know it would be the shoe men who would try it.

Secretary Baker who struggled with Cleveland's trolley problem when he was mayor of that city, says that the nickel fare is a "psychological necessity," and although that may sound high-brow we aim to please all tastes by commenting that the secretary has the right dope.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

In talking with a friend who has occasion to meet medical men quite frequently the writer learned that in some Massachusetts cities the record of births since the ending of the war shows a great increase in the proportion of the number of boys being born over that of girls and curiosity led to an investigation of the local records. It was found that since the beginning of the present year there have been 55 more boys than girls born in Lowell, the total being 805 boys and 750 girls.

The greatest difference came in the month of March when there were 29 more boys than girls born or 133 boys in comparison with 104 girls. Only in July did the girls outstrip the boys, for there were 111 young lady newcomers in that month and only 103 boys.

One of the interesting though not pleasant developments of the threatened tie-up of the railroads in this vicinity has been the difficulty of the local board of health officials in getting a supply of vaccine points for use in the local dispensary and by doctors on vaccination cases. The vaccine points are furnished by the state board of health, but owing to the possibility of shipments being delayed in transit the board has been hesitant about sending out the points in large numbers and for a while the Lowell supply was at low ebb. Agent O'Farrell by telephone and suggested that the vaccine points be brought to Lowell by Dr. Stupson, the state health officer, for this district. Thus was a famine averted in its infancy.

Many shoe workers of this city will remember Everett Ellis, who at one time was foreman of the stock room at the John Pilling Co. Well, Everett has just returned from Europe where despite his advanced age he has participated in many of the important battles of the great world war. Mr. Ellis was employed in a shoe factory at Hartford, Conn., when the war broke out and after being refused enlistment in the United States army, his age at that time being 58, he went across the line and joined a Canadian regiment, and that only after informing the recruiting officer that his age was 45 years. Well, anyway, Mr. Ellis soon found himself on a ship sailing across the Atlantic and when he landed in England he was sent to a training camp for a few months and later he crossed the channel and swung into the front lines. During his stay in the trenches the "young" soldier was shell shocked twice and also gassed, but nothing daunted, he went back from the hospital to the battle line and fought like the brave Canadian that he is. Mr. Ellis arrived in Lowell a few days ago wearing several decorations and best of all, carrying his pension certificate, which will enable him to take life easy forever. Mr. Ellis is in the best of health and says his experience in France is worth a great deal to him. He is now renewing acquaintances in this city and it is fair to assume that wherever he goes he will be given the glad hand.

The examiner found he had a position open for a drill hand in a local plant, talked things over with Jones and the result was that Jones was soon on his way to the plant to begin work.

On the way he met August. August had served with Jones in the army, and the pair exchanged greetings. Jones told August of his new position, whereupon August allowed that he was a pretty good driller himself, and being without a job might as well apply for a position in the same plant Jones had been referred to.

So August dropped in at the employment bureau later in the forenoon.

"Yes, I guess we can place you," said Mr. Cronin when informed by August that he was looking for a drill hands job. "Yes, there is a chance for a good man; but he must be good."

"What experience have you had?" he asked as an afterthought.

"I was drilling 14 months in the army," declared August.

In passing it may be said that August didn't get the job; but it is suspected that he did get Mr. Cronin's goat.

P.S.—We don't know what became of August.

Just a few flowers growing along the bank of a brook caused the death of little Edward Steverly, year-and-a-half-old baby boy.

Edward, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steverly, 143 Baldwin street, got away from his mother for a little while late yesterday afternoon, and made his way to the bank of the Black brook, which runs through a field in the rear of his home.

There were flowers growing on the bank, and to his baby mind, they seemed most alluring. So baby Edward began picking flowers. But before he had gathered many blossoms he overreached and fell into the water.

His mother found him there a few moments later, and although a hurried call brought Dr. E. A. Shaw and Dr. Phillips of North Chelmsford, whose efforts were supplemented with a pulmotor, baby Edward could not be brought back again from the land where the flowers and sunshine are eternal.

WILDE AND MOORE IN LONDON RING

Certainly looks as if Pal Moore, American bantam, was a few shades the fresher when this picture of him and the English flyweight, Jimmy Wilde, was taken. It was snapped after the fighters had gone two-thirds of the distance and Wilde is preparing to lead with his left. Wilde's face shows evidence of having undergone a great strain. The accounts of the fight convinced American ring bugs that Moore had the best of the going at all times, but the British referee's decision went to Wilde. The fight was staged in London, July 17.

CHANGE OF LIVING COST JULY, 1914-JULY 1919

The cost of living for American wage earners was 71 per cent. higher in July, 1919, than at the outbreak of the world war in July, 1914, according to a preliminary statement issued by the Bureau of Economic Research of the Merrimack Industrial Chamber of Commerce. The increase stated, the net reached $1.50, bringing the total to $1.50.

SOLDIER KILLED IN HOME OF FIANCÉE

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 14.—James Despoto, 23 years of age, was killed last night by a shot fired through a window of the home of his fiancee, Miss Anna Filomena Bruno Mazzotto, 20 years old, was arrested, charged with the crime. He admitted, according to the police, that he was in the vicinity, but said he knew nothing of the shooting. Jury Given Ford-Tribune Case

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 14.—The jury which for three months has been hearing Henry Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Tribune retired today to consider its verdict.

Judge Tucker instructed the jury that the Tribune had the right of fair comment because Ford's position as a great employer of labor and his discussion of the preparedness question made him a public character. The judge held that a newspaper had no greater privileges in making comment than an individual.

Teeth Cannot Last

If You Let That Film Remain

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Why Brushed Teeth Discolor and Decay

Millions of people find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. Tartar forms on them. And most people, soon or late, suffer pyorrhea.

Old methods of tooth brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Statistics show that tooth troubles have constantly increased.

Now dentists know the reason. It lies in a film—that slimy film which you feel on your teeth with your tongue. It clings and stays in certain places, particularly in crevices.

That is what discolors—not your teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. "Bacterial plaque" is the dental name for film. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to that film.

The tooth brush used in the old ways leaves much of this film intact. The ordinary dentifrice cannot dissolve it. Soapy tooth pastes even help it to cling.

So much of this film—the great tooth destroyer—has been left to do its damage. Nearly everybody has had teeth wrecked by it, despite the daily brushing.

Dental science has long sought a way to end that film. It has now evolved an efficient film combatant. Able authorities have proved this by many clinical tests. Now, for general use, the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere are urging its adoption.

And we offer you a 10-Day Tube to show its effects.

Now You Can End It In a Pleasant Way

Pepsodent is a dainty tooth paste, based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

This method seems simple, but pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid, harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed impossible.

Science has made it possible now by the discovery of a harmless activating method. Five governments have already granted patents. That method, used in Pepsodent, has brought about this dental revolution.

The effects of Pepsodent have been proved beyond question. Thousands of tests have been made and watched by experts. Results in some cases have been watched for years.

They are so prompt, so apparent that anyone can prove them. And that is the object of this offer. The stores named below have been supplied with liberal 10-Day Tubes. And they will give you one, entirely free, if you present the coupon this week.

Do this for your own sake—for your children's sake. Use Pepsodent like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Old methods have not ended film—you know that. See if this way does. Few things are more important.

Then decide for yourself what to do in the future. Hundreds of thousands are now making this test, and they do not return to the old ways. Nor will you.

"OUTLAW MILLIONAIRE" HAS PROFIT PLAN

BY ERNEST J. HOPKINS
(N.E.A. Staff Correspondent)

"I am an outlaw financier," says Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, millionaire banker.

"I think business is a matter of human beings."

Animated by this idea, Spreckels has lately installed in the two banks under his control, a new sort of profit-sharing plan which rewards the "wheelhorses" of his accounting staff.

Everybody knows the "wheelhorse." He is the man who does the work and misses out on the money. He plods along at desk or bench or machine, year in and year out—plods until he gets grey-haired and bent, and slow and old. He isn't flashy—he has nothing but his faithfulness and his capacity for drudgery. All the wheelhorses do is work.

"America's business and manufacturing worlds," says Spreckels, "are crammed full of men of this type. Their name is legion—therefore their salaries are low."

"But—

"God knows what the bank, or the store, or the factory, would do without them! It is these slow-going plodders that drag the peak-load of industry."

ADVISE WILSON ON FOOD CRISIS

WASHINGTON, August.—Four of President Wilson's advisors in the

plans, have always been unjust to salary, but to each man's years of service.

Suppose, for example, that all salaries added together make $500,000 for the year. Divide each man's salary by $500,000, and you get his fraction of the first half of the fund.

"But today all that is changed. Each man is disciplined by his fellows who work alongside of him.

"It is a far better, far more human type of discipline than the old way. What is more, it works."

"I regard this spirit of good feeling between a firm and its employees, as keep the usual strict watch on such matters as punctuality, courtesy to patrons, efficiency and so on. When a man was discharged, naturally his side-partners resented it and felt the usual discontent."

"So I set out to devise a plan that would take length of service into account and reward loyalty as well as brilliancy," Spreckels narrates.

"Though in force only since the beginning of the year, I can state emphatically that it has worked a small revolution in our banks. The rank and file know that the brilliant fellows will not walk away with all the plums."

Spreckels' plan calls for the annual setting aside of 20 per cent of the bank's net profits, to be distributed among the men each January 1. The remaining 80 per cent goes into a fund to strengthen the bank, on the theory that this also benefits the men by insuring them permanent employment.

Half of the smaller sum is divided among the men in proportion to their pay—the usual plan. But the other half is divided in relation, not only to the length of service, but also to the number of years of service.

Before we put this plan into effect with our 175 employees in the First National bank of San Francisco and the First Federal Trust company," says Spreckels, "our officers had to strongly insist upon the plan, as it was not popular at first."

The one thing America must develop right soon, if we are to avoid the gravest sort of industrial trouble. There is tremendous danger ahead for American business men—most of us are unwilling to admit it, but we feel it more or less.

"The only thing that will avoid this danger is a regard for the human values. Employers have got to be good fellows, otherwise employers will go down and out."

"My profit-sharing plan means more to me than merely a piece of good business. I have the higher hope of compelling similar action on the part of our competitors. If my staff is happier and more loyal than theirs, they will have to follow suit. Discontent is thus removed over a wide segment of industry."

"American's business world must become human. The alternative is too terrible to contemplate. If the present discontent is permitted to increase no man can say what will happen."

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Casto. Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its

In his letter to Admiral Peary, Capt. LOWELL FOR RIVER PLAN

Large Delegation Attends Merrimack Reservoir Hearing at Manchester

(Special to The Sun.)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 14.—Further exploitation of the project to obtain information bearing upon the desirability of establishing a system of reservoirs in the basin of the Merrimack river took place here yesterday at a public meeting called by Col. Francis R. Shunk of the United States Engineer Corps, war department, and in which Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Engineer Stafford, and John M. O'Donoghue, of Lowell, took an active part. The assembly, while not large, was representative of the interests to be benefited should it be found advisable to construct such a storage basin as is proposed at or near the headquarters of the Merrimack river.

Succinctly stated, the enterprise proposes to increase the depth of the river and bring about a more uniform flow of water, and curtail the periods of drought and of freshet by means of establishing storage reservoirs at or near the source of the river.

Col. Gilbert Van B. Wilkes, assistant in the offices of the United States District Engineers in Boston, presided and stated the lines along which the United States government desired information, to wit: The benefits to be derived from reservoirs in the way of navigation, power development, flood control, and irrigation; the amount of damage which might be entailed by their construction and operation; the extent to which local interests could be depended upon to contribute to the cost, and the relative advantages to be derived by federal control, state supervision, or private control.

Col. Wilkes said that the government was interested in the storage reservoir problem only so far as it might prove beneficial to navigation, and that the larger part of the expense, should such a system be decided upon, would have to be borne by the mill owners.

Congressman Rogers stated that the congressional delegation from both Massachusetts and New Hampshire were deeply interested in the proposed reservoir storage proposition and could be relied upon to assist in the realization of the aims sought to the best of their ability. It was said by the speaker that it was perfectly obvious that the two states must cooperate heartily and that the federal government should lend its counsel and material aid. It was through action on the part of the federal government that the interests of Massachusetts and New Hampshire must be brought together. Neither state could accomplish anything worthy of note by acting alone and the national government must assume the role of senior advisor. Congressman Rogers said:

"The questions of droughts and freshets can be solved by system of reservoirs. The summer flow of water can be doubled, and the damage by spring freshets eliminated. We have got to have the project translated into terms of dollars and the figures made by the government engineers would be accepted where others would not be. This project will not die. The board of trade of Lowell is very much interested. We believe in it from the standpoints of health, power and navigation."

John M. O'Donoghue pledged the backing of the Lowell board of trade and of the municipality of Lowell in the development of the storage reservoir idea, and asserted that vast benefits in various ways would flow from the realization of such an enterprise as is proposed. Engineer Stafford of

LONDON COMMENT ON GREY'S APPOINTMENT

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Viscount Grey's appointment as temporary ambassador to the United States is approved by most of the public but there is criticism in some quarters.

The Daily News criticizes the government for making an "emergency appointment" and adds:

"To choose a statesman who for more than two years has been out of touch with active political life is, to say the least, a singular proceeding."

The Post hopes that Viscount Grey will not forget Americans respect a man who stands firmly upon the rights and interests of his own nation. In the past there has been a weak tradition of surrender at Washington, due mainly to the pusillanimous and unmanly policy of the government at home."

In most of the editorials, Viscount Grey's sympathy with the league of nations is dwelt upon though the Telegraph remarks he had not revealed whether he champions the particular form of the league incorporated in the peace treaty.

The Chronicle says: "With his rare tact and knowledge, he will be especially qualified to take counsel both with President Wilson and those who are not satisfied with all the terms of the league of nations covenant."

As regards the league the Daily that Great Britain could have no better representative than Viscount Grey. It adds, however: "This path will not be smoothed by the government's sustained refusal to make any approach to a solution of the Irish problem."

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1883 Herlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

MAYS CASE

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—President Ban Johnson of the American league was in Boston yesterday looking up some matters in connection with the Mays case that he proposes to present tomorrow to the court in New York before which he has been summoned to show cause why the temporary injunction recently issued should not be made permanent.

By this temporary injunction President Johnson was enjoined from interfering with the New York club in using Carl Mays as a player.

Mr. Johnson said he did not care to make any comment on the case. Since it was now in the hands of the court, he wished to be tried there so long as it could not have been settled out of court and not in the newspapers.

He had threatened to do nothing for what he regarded as a breach of contract which, if condoned, would, he believed, result in grave injury to the game and to the business.

In regard to the purchase of star players by clubs who were in the race for the championship, from those which were out of it, in the latter stages of the contest, Mr. Johnson said that matter had been discussed last summer but unfortunately had been left in abeyance.

This practice, he was sure, would be prohibited in both leagues at their next annual meetings.

"WHAT'S THE IDEA?"

Billie Hartnett, manager of the Bellevue Red Club, is out with a blank challenge to the B. & K. and K. of C. to meet his team in a series of games for a purse of money at Spalding park and has the following to say regarding events in the past, present and future:

The Bellevues would like to know why a series of games with either the B. & K. or K. of C. cannot be arranged. The car shop boys have recently finished a series of games with the C.M.A.C. and now lay claim to the city amateur title. They refuse to play the Bellevues, who already have an 8 to 0 victory over them, except on May 24, when George Coughlin of the car shop has had several appointments with the manager of the Bellevues, but has failed to keep them.

"Manager Coughlin of the Knights promised the Bellevues a series after the St. Peter's series, but has failed to come through. The Bellevues challenge either and both of them to a series of games and will match any sum of money they see fit to put up."

BREAK BEFORE REDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—More than 40,000 partisan New Yorkers packed the historic Polo grounds yesterday and saw their beloved Giants twice overwhelmed by Pat Moran's remarkable Cincinnati team in the first two games of the three-game series, which means so much to these sterling clubs.

Outhit and outfielded, out-generated and out-pitched, the Giants always were just a stride behind and try as they might, Cincinnati's one run lead, gained early in each game, maintained to the end. The scores were 4 to 3 and 4 to 1.

Moran played his two trump cards, his ace in the hole—the brilliant and boisterous Ruth and the crafty, wizardly Sallee and veritably pitched their heads off. But, indeed, they were forced to pitch, as well as Moran, matched the Red Landis' selections with Art Nehf and Douglas both hurlers of acknowledged skill. Nehf left the opening game in the seventh to allow Lew McCarthy to bat for him and Dubie finished up.

The game pitched by Sallee slightly overshadowed Ruth's effort for the veterans, who was in superb condition and held his former team mates to three hits.

The results of the games were body blows to New York pennant hopes, for long before the series began, close followers of the National league, and noted that unless the Giants could win in successive power and smite the Reds now, they must ever after, or until 1920 at least, hold their peace and finish out their string in the position of runner-up.

RED VICTORY WOULD BE POPULAR

Seems everyone is pulling for the Reds to win but the New York Giants, New York city and seven baseball magnates.

Everything comes John McGraw's way excepting his all of victories. The Reds somehow manage to keep his appetite unappeased in that respect.

But if John wants a new pitcher or two, a new infielder, a new catcher or a new slugging outfielder, he has but to make the want known and some other club in the league will answer his S.O.S.

I think the answer lies in a frank statement from a manager in the league race the other day. I am not mentioning his name for I do not believe he meant for me to quote him.

"Why shouldn't New York win the pennant?" he said, "Don't they pay the freight thereto?"

"New York and Chicago furnishes the real crowds and keeps baseball going. If it wasn't for the big crowds in New York some of the other clubs would have a hard time making both ends meet. New York pays the money for the pennants they demand."

That is why John McGraw gets about what he wants. A few weeks ago he decided he needed another first class catcher. He got Frank Snyder one of the very best in the game today, from the St. Louis Cards.

Then he wanted a pitcher and he got Phil Douglass from the Cubs. The Cubs got an outfielder—Dave Robertson—in the deal. The Cubs needed an outfielder. But it was a one-sided deal. The Cubs were supposed to be in the race and up fighting for the flag. Even had they not needed Douglass they helped the Giants out by turning him over to them. And the Giants didn't lose an ounce of strength by parting with Robertson for he wasn't playing with them. He was at his home in Virginia. So it was a bad deal from a Cub standpoint though Fred Mitchell says he is satisfied.

McGraw wanted another pitcher and he got Art Nehf from the Boston Braves.

Baseball fans like to see a pennant on the field. When one team in the league, realizing it may not be able to keep to the front with its present lineup, takes its pick from the other clubs, it doesn't leave a pleasing taste in the mouths of the general run of fans.

The Reds need men, too. They've needed an outfielder all year. Other club owners would not help the Reds out unless they received huge sums of money. The Reds haven't the money the Giants have. They can't take their pick of the other six National league clubs.

The Reds forged to the front with the team they started with. They're a fighting baseball outfit and all credit is due them and their manager, Pat Moran.—Fred Turbyville.

ADVERTISING HINTS

Trade Publication Advises
Advertisers to Use Saturday Evening Papers

A trade publication called the Advertising Age and Mail Order Journal has been campaigning to urge on advertisers some of the benefits to be derived from carrying advertising in the Saturday issue of evening papers.

Speaking of some of the things that have come under its observation in connection with the subject the Advertising Age cites some examples from Philadelphia. One of the big department stores in Philadelphia is the firm of Strawbridge & Clothier.

The manager of this store said to the representative of the Advertising Age:

"We always have a page of carefully compiled news of bright new merchandise in the Saturday evening newspaper and while we urge our customers to consider the importance of our Monday advertisements we nevertheless find that the people who see our ads in the Saturday evening papers enjoy reading and discussing the news they find in the evening papers in their homes, and in reading and discussing the news they get into the habit of reading and discussing the ads and to such extent that we are bound to say we have found our Saturday evening announcements have already proved a great success."

"We make it a point to show that the merchandise advertised Saturday evening is of unusual attractiveness. In most instances it is marked at considerably less than the regular price and so much so that we urge the newspaper readers to read these Saturday evening ads and be ready to take advantage of the exceptional values the first thing Monday morning when the store opens."

"When we arrange the copy for this Saturday advertising we try to convince the reader that he should think this over at home tonight and tomorrow. We have very definite evidence

See those beauty patches on the nose and forehead of Lady Thackery, wife of a rich Paris merchant now in San Francisco? Well, the upper one is tattooed in blue, while the lower one—

Yes, it's a real diamond, and it's worth $600. It is set on lady's nose set there to stay, too—and it shines, as one semi-intoxicated observer put it, "moz nozably." San Francisco society leaders are considering accepting the fashion.

often by not feeling well enough to attend some social gathering, or to keep an appointment, on account of an attack of indigestion? Such experiences cause disappointment, don't they?

You can ward off these attacks, and keep your stomach and digestive organs healthy by taking SEVEN BARKS, Nature's remedy of roots and herbs.

When the stomach is out of order, the liver not working properly, or the bowels are sluggish, a few doses of SEVEN BARKS will stimulate the liver, regulate the flow of bile, expel distressing acids and dangerous poisons, and quickly restore you back to good digestion and normal health.

Stomach disorders are the direct cause of nearly all the ailments that affect the human system, and make life a burden, instead of a pleasure.

Digestive trouble also spoils beauty—robs you of sleep, makes dark rings around the eyes, and muddies the complexion. Let SEVEN BARKS digest your food and tone your stomach, then you may eat what you like and bright eyes will soon return.

Ask your druggist for SEVEN BARKS. If he does not happen to have it, he will get it for you. Accept no substitute PRICE, 50 cents.—Adv.

that our Saturday evening announcements of some of the special attractions for Monday are more and more appreciated each week. Hundreds of our customers read and discuss this news over the week-end and arrange their shopping plans for Monday largely on the information here given.

"This special Saturday evening news is, for the most part, supplemental to our regular announcements in the Monday newspapers—which are just as important as ever, and which our customers cannot afford to miss. On Monday morning we present valuable information of new things, of fashions and of general merchandise needed by everybody.

"Bear in mind, however, that this Saturday afternoon advance news of special attractions for Monday is of great value, giving to our regular bulletin readers a special incentive to follow our announcements as a regular everyday habit instead of only on Saturday evenings.

days a week."

The authority who writes about this subject in the Advertising Age says it has always been beyond understanding to comprehend why retail advertisers refrain from advertising on certain days when it is to be considered that they keep their stores open every day and are in a position to do as much business on a given day as they were on the day before or the day after. It is obviously to be desired that all stores should do a big volume of business every business day rather than a small volume half the week and an unmanageable volume during the other half. For some unknown reason many advertisers have failed to take full advantage of the Saturday editions of the newspapers.

ARMENIA THREATENED WITH EXTERMINATION

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The peace conference is awaiting the decision of Great Britain as to the withdrawal of British troops from the Caucasus which it is expected will begin to move tomorrow.

Col. William Haskell, U.S.A., allied high commissioner in Armenia, has telephoned the supreme council that Armenia undoubtedly will starve and the people exterminated if the British soldiers are not detained there until others are sent. The supreme council, however, is unable to provide troops. None of the large powers is willing to send soldiers there and, consequently, no action has been taken.

The relief supplies gathered at Tiflis, Batum and Erivan probably will be lost if the British withdraw and the investigation to be made by Major General James G. Harbord on behalf of the American government will be of little use.

coming to him he left the premises. A special mass meeting of all the strikers connected with the affiliated crafts will be held tomorrow evening in Old Fellow's Hall, Middlesex street, and all are requested to be present, for matters of great importance will be brought before the attention of the men. It is expected that at that meeting the result of the vote taken just Monday to determine whether or not the strikers will return to work, will be made known. If the vote is in favor of returning to work, the men will report at the car shops next Friday morning.

MILLS NOT Affected

As far as can be learned the strike of railroad shopmen and the resulting slight express embargo and curtailment of freight movement in Lowell has not produced an iota of concern in the minds of Lowell mill agents. Heads of several of the city's largest cotton and woolen plants when questioned today, said in unison that so far the strike has had absolutely no effect upon their business and none is anticipated. There is enough raw material on hand in the city to withstand a strike of considerable length.

AS foodstuffs have been given the right of way through the placement of embargoes, Lowell wholesale dealers in meat and produce have had no trouble with the receipt of shipments at scheduled times. The first discrepancy in the importation of milk came to light this morning, when the Turner Centre Co. received one of its daily shipments an hour or two late, but it was not considered a serious occurrence, nor did the officials of the company feel that it reflected similar trouble.

BOSTON & MAINE officials say that a drop of about 25 per cent. in the number of freight cars coming into and leaving Lowell daily has taken place since the car shop men left their work. This has been in the nature of a gradual decrease, however, rather than such a large cut at any one time. In normal times the number of freight cars handled in local yards during a day approximates 1200, while for the past two or three days the average has been about 900.

Appeal on N. Y. Income Tax Law

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—In view of his determination to appeal from the recent decision of Federal Judge Knox, holding unconstitutional that part of the state income tax law fixing different exemptions for residents and non-residents, State Comptroller Travis announced today that all regulations issued in connection with deducting and withholding would continue in force. Therefore employers should continue to withhold the percentage of salaries prescribed in the same manner as if no adverse decision had been made.

It is expected that the appeal will be argued in the United States supreme court early in October and a final decision rendered before the end of the year.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Seeks Conference With President On Treaty

WILSON INSISTS NO CHANGES

Senate Committee Decides to Call Advisors Who Resigned at Paris

Not to Call House, Bliss and White—Borah and Johnson Would Cut League.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—After a two-hour discussion today the senate foreign relations committee decided to notify President Wilson that it would call on him at the White House at his convenience, to discuss the peace treaty.

The committee also decided to call before it, H. T. Williams, S. K. Hornbeck and William C. Bullitt, who resigned as advisors to the American peace commission at Paris because it had been reported they disagreed with decisions by the conference.

A motion to call also Col. House, Gen. Bliss and Henry White, American delegates to the peace conference, was voted down, 9 to 8. Senators McDougal, North Dakota and Harding, Ohio, republicans, voting with the democrats.

In deciding to request a conference with President Wilson, on which there was no committed vote, it was agreed that all information secured from the president should be made public.

There is no indication at the White House when the president would receive the committee. To inquire Secretary Tumulty said: "We have no comment to make."

In agreeing to call on the president the committee accepted an informal invitation transmitted by Senator Hitchcock, the administration leader, a few days after the president had the treaty before the senate. It was said the invitation never had been discussed at length in the committee until today.

The suggestion that the committee go to the White House was understood to have been made by Senator Johnson of California.

Although the committee had planned to take up amendments to the treaty with a view to an early report to the senate the proposal to call further witnesses and to consult the president occupied all of today's session. It was said proposed amendments would be taken up tomorrow and the examination of witnesses expedited as much as possible.

Speculation at the capitol as to the purpose of the committee in requesting that the president receive it revolved around the subject of reservations to the treaty and the league covenant. Before the committee acted it had been intimated at the White House that the president had not changed his attitude against reservations.

No date was fixed for re-opening the hearings with Messrs. Bullitt, Williams and others as witnesses. Some of those to be called are not in this country, but will be invited to attend as soon as they are available. All of the hearings will be opened.

Besides Bullitt, Hornbeck and Williams, the committee decided to call Dr. John C. Ferguson and Thomas F. Millard, regarded as authorities on Chinese and Japanese affairs.

Members of the committee voting to call Col. House and other American commissioners were Senators Lodge, Borah, Brandegee, Fall, Knox, Johnson, New and Moses, all republicans.

LICENSE TO SELL LIQUOR VOID

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—A license to sell intoxicating liquor and beer granted by Jersey City on July 1, when war time prohibition became effective, was declared void today in the state supreme court by Justice Swayne. The decision affects about 800 licenses which were granted throughout the state on the same date. Justice Swayne held that there was a conflict between the license and federal laws and that the latter must prevail.

Federal Shoe Company Petitions for Injunction—Strikers Will Fight Case

The latest development in the strike of shoe workers of this city took place this morning when Deputy Sheriff Robert F. Gately, acting for Farley and Tierney, counsel for the Federal Shoe Co., called at the quarters of the Allied Shoe Workers' union in Middle Street and served papers on officials of the union, ordering them to appear at the superior court to be held at East Cambridge, Tuesday, Aug. 19, and then show cause why an injunction should not be issued against the union.

The papers were served at the request of H. H. Mackinlay Co., better known as the Federal Shoe Co., in endeavor to restrain the union members from interfering with the Demand for Recognition of Union Approved by Federal Judge

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. today won their demand for recognition of their union when Federal Judge Mayer, who appointed Lindley M. Garrison receiver for the company, announced that it had been established to the satisfaction of himself and Public Service Commissioner Nixon that more than 50 per cent. of the eligible employees were members of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employees when the strike was called last week. Judge Mayer directed that the grievances of the men be now taken up by officials of the company and a committee representing the union.

The strike was as simple as the taste and habits of the man in life. Fully one half of the 60 persons present were members of the household. The others were intimates of the family.

Reds Seek to Cut Off Cosacks From Main Body of Kolchak's Forces

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The retreat in the Ural mountains of the forces of Admiral Kolchak continues, according to news received here today. South of Uralsk, at the southern end of the Urals, the Bolsheviks have driven the Cossacks back 60 miles and are endeavoring to separate them from the main body of the Kolchak forces.

The Kolchak forces are fighting on both sides of the trans-Siberian railway.

East of Cheliabinsk, a junction point on the railway and Shadrinsk, the Bolsheviks have reached the line of the Miass and Isset rivers and captured Tiumen, just east of the Russian-Siberian border. The advice is that there is no sign that the Bolshevik advance is likely to be checked.

The general position of Admiral Kolchak and his government is not believed to be materially impaired by the Bolshevik advance and, barring an unexpected collapse, the munitions America is sending should arrive in Siberia in time to aid in his recovery.

Nevertheless it is admitted here that the reverses suffered by Admiral Kolchak are a serious blow to the policy of the entente in Russia.

Better news has been received from south Russia, where General Petrukhin, the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevik leader, is progressing rapidly toward Kirov, with a view to cutting the railways southward toward Odessa, which probably have to be evacuated by the soviet forces. The Russian volunteer troops under General Denikin are closing in on Odessa from the northeast and the east, and it is believed that the whole black sea coast will soon be out of Bolshevik hands.

Speculation at the capitol as to the purpose of the committee in requesting that the president receive it revolved around the subject of reservations to the treaty and the league covenant. Before the committee acted it had been intimated at the White House that the president had not changed his attitude against reservations.

No date was fixed for re-opening the hearings with Messrs. Bullitt, Williams and others as witnesses. Some of those to be called are not in this country, but will be invited to attend as soon as they are available. All of the hearings will be opened.

Lowell People Buy Carload of Surplus Government Food in Three Hours

Municipally Conducted Food Sale at Red Cross Rooms in Market Street Big Success Despite Storm—Only Small Amount of Meat Left at Noon—Two More Carloads to be Ordered at Once

In less than two hours and a half on one of the stormiest mornings that the present summer has done out, Lowell people today bought practically a whole carload of foodstuffs from the United States government and showed their willingness to buy as much more.

The big sale of surplus government food was held according to schedule this morning at the workroom of the Red Cross in the old Bigelow-Hartford plant in Market street and was a success from beginning to end. The doors were opened at 9 o'clock and at 11:30 there remained little more than a memory of the thousands of cans of meats and vegetables that had lined the tables earlier in the day. Fully 6000 people took advantage of the sale.

Mayor Thompson, upon being notified of the success of the project, declared that an order for two more carloads of goods would be sent to Boston at once and the sale re-opened as soon as the food is delivered.

The supply of bacon contained in Lowell's order was the first to be depleted. At 10:30 the last pound of the 12-pound cans had been sold. The canned corn, peas and tomatoes were next in favor and at 11:30 there wasn't a can of vegetables left. At noon there was a small supply of corned beef, roast beef and corned beef hash and N. W. Goodell, who had charge of the sale for the Red Cross, said that the salesroom would be kept open as long as this small supply lasted, until 5 p.m., if necessary. However, the sale was practically over at noon.

The rapid selling of vegetables was the feature of the sale. People didn't seem able to get enough of them and the mayor said this noon that a large apportionment of corn, peas and tomatoes would be contained in the second order sent to the zone supply office in Boston.

Officials in charge of the sale were amazed at the rapid manner in which the food disappeared despite the continual downpour of rain. There wasn't a let-up until noon although at times the crowd dwindled to a dozen or so. When the vegetables had gone, purchasers seemed disappointed and didn't take as much interest in the meats excepted.

Mayor Thompson has learned that the government has declared surplus a large amount of loaf sugar and if the present local sugar shortage continues he will endeavor to have sugar included in the city's next order. There is also a supply of condensed milk available and this will also be ordered.

The mayor planned to have a con-

Nothing New in Car Shop Strike—Strikers Get Last Pay Due Them

There were no meetings of the strikers of the Boston & Maine car shop this morning, for during the forenoon the men were busy receiving their pay at the railroad station in Middlesex street. The men assembled at the station shortly before 9 o'clock this morning and a few minutes later the paymaster of the company put in an appearance and paid the last money that was due the strikers. There was not the slightest sign of trouble while the paying was going on and as soon as every one received what was

The local street railway men are very much dissatisfied with the 12 per cent. wage increase awarded to Bay State Carmen by the war labor board, and at a special meeting to be held later are expected to vote to reject the award. President Thomas Powers of the local union bitterly attacked the finding and cited several instances in cities smaller than Lowell where the men are drawing larger pay.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES FAIL TO APPEAR

The trio arrested in South Billerica by Boston police on the night of August 5th on the charge of receiving stolen auto tires, valued at $100, and held in $2500 each in Lowell police court last week for hearing today, failed to appear at this morning's session of police court and a further continuance was ordered until Saturday, bonds remaining at the above amount. The names given by the defendants when arraigned last week were Morris and Bessie Cohen of Boston and Mrs. Pearl Lewis of Madison, Me.

When arrested at the cottage in South Billerica the police allege that $500 worth of auto appliances, mostly tires, were found in the house, thought to have been stolen from the Colonial Garage in Lexington and a garage in Kennebunk, Me. The trio, the police say, are members of the same gang which has been operating around Boston for the past month, four other members of which were arrested last Sunday night at a camp in Billerica.

Other Offenders

Charged with operating an automobile without a license, Earl R. Williams pleaded not guilty and a continuance was granted for one week.

EVERYTHING READY FOR FISHWAY WORK

Simon B. Harris, chairman of the Lowell Fish and Game association, has received official notice of the granting of the contract for the construction of the fishway at Lawrence and it is understood that simultaneously with the construction of the fishway in that city, the Locks and Canals company will install a fishway at the Pawtucket dam in this city. Migratory fish will then have "clear sailing" from the sea to the spawning grounds in the upper waters of the Merrimack river.

Work on the fishways will be begun as soon as possible and it is not too much to say at this time that the restoration of the fishways is due to the good work and untiring efforts of the Lowell Fish and Game association, particularly its legislative committee. This committee left no stone unturned in the instruction and enlightenment of legislators and the fish and game commission.

When the association first broached the subject, the fish and game commissioners allowed that it would be a case of labor lost; that the salmon, once so plentiful in the Merrimack river, would not return to plow their way through a stream polluted and defiled by dye substances and other wastes from the mills. But the Lowell Fish and Game commission kept on plugging and finally one of the commissioners went to the Pacific coast and found that rivers there on which many mills were situated were fairly teeming with salmon. The secret was contained in the fact that these rivers were supplied with the necessary fishways to assist the salmon in negotiating the falls. The pollution from the mills did not offend the salmon's "aesthetic" tastes. All the assistance the salmon wanted in reaching the spawning grounds was a lift over the falls.

Well, anyway, the commissioner in question came back to Massachusetts a convert to the belief of the Lowell Fish and Game association that the pollution from the mills along the Merrimack river would not prevent the return of the salmon providing the necessary fishways were installed, and there is every reason to believe that these will be installed before the late fall.

The Sun has taken a more or less active part in the work of bringing about the restoration of the fishways, believing with President Harris and other members of the Lowell Fish and Game association that after being re-stocked and the fishways installed, the Merrimack would come into its own as a salmon river. And the Sun was very pleased to receive today from the chairman of the legislative committee of the Lowell Fish and Game association a letter of appreciation for its assistance in the fishway project.

The following is a copy of the letter received by Chairman Harris of the association from Chairman Adams of the Fish and Game association:

Boston, August 13, 1919.
Simon B. Harris, Esq., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Yesterday afternoon late, at a meeting of the full board, it was voted to accept the bid of George T. Seabury, Inc., 44 Washington St., Providence, R. I., to construct the fishway around the dam of the Essex company at Lawrence.

The bid of this company was $23,455.90 and was the lowest bid received.

Mr. George T. Seabury, the head of the company, has impressed us most favorably, and he deserves the work for his large practical experience.

We notified him yesterday afternoon of the action of the board, and instructed him to get started on the work at the earliest possible date.

It is needless to say that we will put forth every effort to get the fishway built before the period of high water.

It will be a very great satisfaction to us, as we know it will be to you, when this fishway becomes a reality.

With kindest regards for a comfortable and prosperous summer, we are very truly yours,

WILLIAM ADAMS,
Chairman.

Mr. Harris Replies

Replies to Chairman Adams' letter, Mr. Harris wrote as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 14, 1919.

William C. Adams, Chairman Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission, State House, Boston, Mass.

My Dear Sir:

It was with pleasure that I read

IF THIN AND NERVOUS, TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing like plain Nitro-Phosphate to put on firm, Healthy Flesh and to Improve Strength, Nerve Force.

When one stops to consider the hosts of people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the filling out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of protrusions, the straightening of the attendant bloom of muscle and attractiveness, it is wonderful that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes, it is well known that a well-known fact that the lack of phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. Experiments on humans and animals by many scientists have demonstrated beyond question of doubt that body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and weak. A noted author and professor in his book, "Chemistry and Read Nutrition," published in 1913, says: "that the amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of man is considerably greater than in many of our standard text books."

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate known throughout English-speaking countries as Nitro-Phosphate.

Through the association of this phosphoric content was absorbed in the amount normally required by the body soon produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace it, while body becomes fit, taut, limber, and alert again, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing. It is sold by A. W. Dowd in Lowell and all good drugstores.

CATION:—White Nitro-Phosphate is guaranteed for the relief of nerve tension, general debility, etc., taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding overproducing foods.—Adv.

CHARGES HUN GOLD USED TO DEFEAT LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Representative Hella, democrat of Alabama, charged in the house yesterday that German money and munition money and manufacturers' money is back of the League of Nations, which will take place in Europe to defeat the League of Nations. He declared money by the thousands was being expended and newspapers purchased, to poison public opinion and that men had been hired to assassinate the league.

We wish you every success in this undertaking and hope that at our next session which will take place in October you will be able to report substantial progress in the building of these two fishways on the Merrimack—to wit at Lawrence and Lowell. Very respectfully yours,

SIMON B. HARRIS,
Chairman, Committee on Legislation.

SUIT TO DISSOLVE CEMENT TRUST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A suit in equity to dissolve the "cement combination" was announced yesterday by Attorney General Palmer. The action is to be brought in the district of New Jersey against 19 individual companies.

In praying that the defendants be perpetually enjoined "from further engaging in combination and conspiracy," the government charged that by means of an unincorporated association supported by all on the pro-rata basis of business transacted, they undertook to restrict production to decrease the aggregate amount of cement under contract for future delivery, to maintain uniform prices and to advance prices about 200 per cent.

Repatriation of German Marshals

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The repatriation to Germany of Field Marshal Liman von Sanders has been granted by the allies, a German wireless despatch says. Field Marshal von Mackensen is going to Constantinople, and the message adds that his liberation is under consideration.

Von Sanders commanded the Turks in Palestine during the final campaign there, narrowly escaping capture. When the Turkish government signed an armistice, he was arrested in Constantinople.

Von Mackensen was in command of the German troops in Rumania when hostilities ended. He attempted to force his way through Hungary to Germany, but was arrested at Budapest by French troops.

Rumanian Delegation at Lemberg

Commons in All Night Session

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—The house of commons confined its sitting all night, the government having stated its wish that the profiteering bill be finished at this session.

NEW YORK CARMEN
GET WAGE INCREASE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Interborough Rapid Transit Co., which operates the subway and elevated lines in the borough of Manhattan, has granted a general wage increase of 10 per cent. The advance was given at the request of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employees and is expected to forestall a strike similar to that of the League of Nations. The resolution paralyzed transportation. Initiation was referred without debate to the foreign relations committee.

WOULD AWARD
THRACE TO GREECE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Senator King, democrat of Utah, introduced a resolution yesterday declaring the Senate favored award of Thrace to Greece, with provision for Bulgarian cession, and that Constantinople, the capital of the Sea of Marmora and the Gallipoli peninsula, be a free state under the protection of the League of Nations. The resolution was referred without debate to the foreign relations committee.

TO STOP SUGAR PROFITEERING

Dept. of Justice Expects to Reach Many Through License Regulations

Food Administration Officials Say Sugar Should Not be Over 11 Cents

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Through license regulations and the power of the food administration to procure the cancellation of licenses, the department of justice hopes to reach some cases of profiteering in sugar that would be more difficult to reach through enforcement of the criminal provisions of the food control act.

This position of the department was made plain in a circular sent to federal attorneys today, calling attention to the fact that food administration officials had taken the position that sugar should not retail for more than 11 cents a pound and that "where it is retailing for more, it indicates that either the wholesaler or retailer is making an unreasonable profit."

MORE
Attorney General Palmer said, however, that no price for sugar could be fixed by the government. He conferred today with Clarence E. Wilson, food administrator for the District of Columbia, about efforts to reduce prices in Washington. He also had a conference with F. C. Henderschott, secretary of the New York's fair price committee.

Mr. Palmer was to appear later today before the senate agriculture committee to explain amendments to the food control act, extending anti-profiteering sections to clothing and other necessities.

When the committee met today, senators expressed divided opinions as to the necessity for the legislation.

"If we amend this bill," said Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina. "it will mean we will include every article of commerce and put the commerce of America in the hands of the department of justice."

Senator Smith, democrat, Georgia, expressed doubt that congress had constitutional power to pass such legislation.

Amendment of the act so as to enable the government to prosecute profiteering in shoes was urged by Senator Ransdell, democrat, Louisiana. "With conditions as they now are over the country," said Senator Johnson, democrat, South Dakota, "amendments will not hurt this act, and I favor giving Mr. Palmer all the powers he asks to see if he can accomplish what we desire to have him accomplish."

NO DESIRE TO BE KING

BUDAPEST, Tuesday, Aug. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Archduke Joseph told the correspondent today he had no desire to be king, but wanted to see the country tranquil.

"I would not move my little finger to be king," he said. "It is not true that I worked in confusion with the Romanians to establish myself as head of the government. I have a real heart interest in the country. I want to see a parliament elected, after which the people's representatives can do what they like."

"I believe the socialists should be admitted to a relative share in the government. Hungary is an agricultural country and not communist in sentiment. The socialists told me they did not wish to see me king. I explained I was not seeking such a position but wanted a parliament to settle everything."

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE ALUMNI OUTING

The eighth annual outing for the members of St. Joseph's college alumni was held this afternoon at the Genoa club house in Tyngsboro and despite the inclement weather the attendance was quite large and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. There was some talk this morning about postponing the event on account of the rain, but this plan was abandoned after it was learned that it would be impossible to secure the outing grounds until next October.

The excursionists, numbering about 100, gathered at the college in Merrimack street at 12:30 o'clock and a half hour later they boarded two automobile trucks and speeded to the neighboring town. Baseball games and sporting events were out of the question, so the afternoon was spent in the clubhouse and indoor sports were indulged in. In the course of the afternoon refreshments were served and later the annual election of officers was held. The affair was in the hands of the officers of the association, who are as follows: John B. Richard, president; Napoleon Milt. Jr., vice president; Arthur H. Giroux, secretary; Dewey G. Archambault, assistant secretary; Willis J. Peltier, treasurer; Michael Mallhot, Ernest L'Heureux, Arthur Brunelle, Nephtale Letende and Rev. Bro. Pierre Vincent, directors.

14 PERSONS ARE BITTEN BY DOG

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 14.—Fourteen persons were bitten by a collie dog while in the vicinity of Atwells avenue yesterday. After an exciting chase by policemen of the 4th and 6th precincts, the animal was killed with a bullet by Patrolman Paul A. King in Acorn street.

The head of the dog will be examined and arrangements are being made by the health department to have each one of those attacked by the dog take the pasteur treatment at the Providence City hospital.

The dog ran wild for more than an hour, frothing at the mouth and snapping at everyone who crossed its path. In nearly every instance the victims were bitten on the wrist or

RAPS ENGLAND AND AMERICA

Statement Demands Hungary
be United With Rumania
Under King

Threat to Strip Hungary if Rumanian Army is Forced to Withdraw

VIENNA, Tuesday, Aug. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—A statement attacking England and America demanding that Hungary be united with Rumania under the sovereignty of King Ferdinand, and threatening to strip Hungary if the Rumanian army is forced to withdraw from that country, has been presented to Archduke Joseph, head of the government by the authorized Rumanian representative at Budapest, according to report which follows:

"There are 250,000 workmen in Budapest who are only waiting for the Rumanians to leave Hungary to immediately take the situation into their own hands, which means the return of Bolshevism. The Hungarian government cannot depend upon the entente powers for assistance for these powers have withdrawn all their troops from Russia, and America is unwilling to send a single soldier. We do not trust the entente, which wants only to humiliate us. We are willing to withdraw our troops if necessary, starting tomorrow morning, but we will carry off everything and strip the country just as Field Marshal Mackensen did Rumania.

"The only grudge the entente has against us is that we refuse to have English and American capital dominate Rumania. Hungary must follow Rumania's policy in not accepting English and American capital. Whatever would remain after the Rumanians' retreat would be taken by the entente anyway. The entente idea is to have Rumania and Hungary fight and destroy each other, the entente thereby getting all. There is only one policy for Hungary to pursue.

DEFINITE REPLY

FROM RUMANIANS

VIENNA, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Alfred military representatives conferred at Budapest today with representatives of the Rumanian and Hungarian governments.

It is believed that a crisis is imminent and that the Rumanians must give a definite reply to the peace conference note of August 7 without material delay.

Is it Possible to Legislate Life and Brains?

Swift & Company is primarily an organization of men, not a collection of brick, mortar, and machinery.

Packing Plants, their equipment and usefulness are only outward symbols of the intelligence, life long experience, and right purpose of the men who compose the organization and of those who direct it.

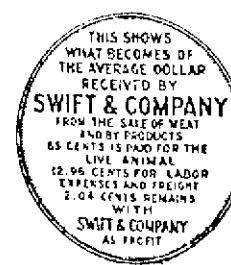

Will not Government direction of the packing industry, now contemplated by Congress, take over the empty husk of physical property and equipment and sacrifice the initiative, experience and devotion of these men, which is the life itself of the industry?

What legislation, what political adroitness could replace such life and brains, once driven out?

THE STRAND

The story of "The Pagan God," the latest film creation in which H. B. Warner, the eminent English actor appears for the first time, took at the Strand, is now about a plot of the Tong, planning a revolution in Mongolia. Bruce Wlthrop, a young American expert, apparently falls in love with the Chinese girl Cleopatra, one of the leaders of the Tong. When Bruce went to live at the palace of Chantung in the interior of Mongolia and became a hatchetman among the Tong, the蒙古人, he turned and saved Veryl, another Tong heart, because suspicious, believing he had fallen a victim to the charm of Tai Ling and was helping to foment trouble. Now Bruce discovered the secret of the Tong and eventually exposed the leaders of the revolution, is shown in a drama of tense situations and exciting moments. The closing climax is a real thriller. Mr. Warner is said to have given better than ever his "The Man Who Turned White," which was shown recently at this playhouse. Don't miss it.

"The Upfifer," a comedy drama starring May Allison is a mirth-provoking comedy, full of scenes of musical and complicated situations that create endless amusement. The play was adapted from the story of the same name written by Will Irvin in the "Upfifer" is a Post, tells of the adventures of Innocent Trout, a dismasted stenographer, who wanders into the realms of Bohemia where she becomes a "comrade" in name and "servant" in reality to a clique of swindlers and shop-chasers. Women who dream themselves the "shackled free." The story is witty and well played and the romance which is interwoven lies close to the heart.

The latest comedy and a new Western, together with new songs by Rose McDonough Stanton, will add greatly to the worth of the bill. Watch the pony contest.

$223,000 IN LIBERTY BONDS STOLEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Liberty bonds valued at $223,000 were stolen Tuesday from two brokerage firms in the financial district here, it was learned at police headquarters late yesterday. The stolen bonds in each instance had been entrusted to messengers who have disappeared.

Richard Whitney & Co. were the victims of the larger theft. This firm dispatched a messenger with $178,000 worth of bonds to the office of Kidder, Peabody & Co., brokers. The bonds consisted mostly of victory notes, although among them were some of the earlier issues. The messenger, a boy, did not deliver the bonds.

The other theft was from Simons & Slade, whose loss was $45,000 in Liberty bonds of the second issue.

They were stolen under circumstances similar to those under which the bonds of Whitney & Co. were taken.

The messenger in whose possession they had been placed disappeared after he had been instructed to deliver them to the office of another broker.

At the police commissioner's office it was stated that the messenger who was entrusted with the $45,000 Liberty bonds by Simons & Slade had a "record" of a similar theft here of $25,000 in Liberty Bonds, for which he was brought back from Los Angeles last April and given a suspended sentence.

Both messengers were under bonds of a surety company.

LOWELL TAX BILLS ONLY CLUE TO IDENTITY

OLD TOWN, Me., Aug. 14.—A man found prostrated from the heat in the road near this city several weeks ago died in a local hospital yesterday. He was evidently a Polish woodsman, about 55 years old. The only clue to his identity are some tax bills from the city of Lowell, Mass., made out to Stefan Paszczuk. Nothing is known of his relatives.

IRISH MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT HELD

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—Peter Galligan, member of parliament from the west division of Cavan, who was court-martialed on a charge of illegal drilling of troops and the inciting of mobs against police officers, in connection with his activities as a Sinn Fein leader, has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment at hard labor.

LAND IS WAY DOWN, BUILDING WAY UP; EXPERT TELLS WHY

BY EDWARD P. E. TROY
(Compiler of the Public Ownership Handbook.)

Why is the market value of land naturally falling to half what it was during "dull" times, while at the same time industry generally is humbling, wages of labor are steadily rising and returns on capital are at a high water mark?

Here is something for everyone to ponder whether or not he owns land or expects to acquire any. Especially should it interest legislators and tax boards.

A good many land speculators are getting rid of city lots at unheard-of prices. They know that the increased cost of building material and labor must come out of land values, the only thing that is left. They are selling out as fast as they can before bottom prices are reached.

It has become an axiom that "land values are created by the footsteps of the passerby." Many companies operating chains of stores will decide on a location for a new building only after taking an accurate count of the average number of persons daily passing that spot.

The income on improved city lots can be pretty accurately gauged in advance, being based on the site, the population and enterprise of the community.

Heretofore land, without any effort of capital or labor being applied to it, has absorbed into its value half the earning power of its location. This is called the "unearned increment." If the cost of a building exceeds what may remain of this earning power, the return will be adequate.

When the cost of building increases, the value of the land must be lowered to strike this average.

This may be like a kindergarten recall to a good many land owners and builders, but indications today are that thousands of folk, confronted with housing and building problems, are not taking these facts into sufficient consideration.

Heretofore land has been most exacting in its toll from both capital and labor. But the tables are turning.

Prices of land have fallen with a thud, while the rewards of enterprise have begun to be fairly remunerative.

Unfortunately many uninformed leg-

A Permanent Wave will change the character of straight hair to or near to the character possessed by hair which waves or curls naturally.

The price of a Permanent Wave is fifteen dollars, but this is low considering that this wave includes the sides and front of the hair.

Every woman can have beautiful hair by giving it proper care. Try, for instance, our hot olive oil shampoo with scalp massage. A shampoo like this will make the hair grow, will give it beauty and that silky glossy look so much admired.

Tax boards should increase the assessed value of land so as to keep the taxes at the existing rates, making no increased assessment upon householders or business enterprises. The increase thus will fall upon unimproved land, which cannot be passed on but stays put. This is a singular advantage of a land tax, and is the reason why it always reduces the market price of land. Land values, being thus lowered, will encourage industry and make home owning and building more easy.

Expulsion of Striking Shopmen From International Union Threatened

President Demands Men Return to Work in Telegram to Chicago Leaders

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Expulsion of all striking railway shopmen from the international organization is threatened in a telegram from B. M. Jewell, president of the organization, to officials of the Chicago district council. A meeting of striking shopmen was called today to vote on the question of returning to work. The telegram reads: "Make orders positive to all points. Now is the time to act. We cannot much longer delay, and if you refuse to comply, we will be compelled to advise lines and Wilson, if necessary, that you do not belong to the organization. If negotiations are resumed, strikers will be deprived of benefits."

STILL Voting in New England

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Traffic conditions on New England railroads after today will depend largely on the result of the count of ballots cast by mechanics and shopmen who struck last Thursday and Friday for increased wages. Strike leaders said that the sentiment on the question of returning to work had been made uncertain by an apparent division of opinion between employees of the Boston & Maine railroad and those of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co.

Boston & Maine strikers, who voted early in the week were said to oppose going back to work until their grievances had been adjusted, but there were indications that the New Haven men who voted yesterday and today favored the adoption of President Wilson's recommendation for an immediate return.

Tabulation of the votes cast on the New Haven lines was expected to be completed by noon and taken into the joint meeting of the executive boards in this city tonight. A report on the result was expected before midnight.

The sentiment of Boston & Albany road men who also have voted, has been carefully guarded as it has been agreed that the majority vote of two roads will govern the return of the third.

Strike leaders announced that a vote to return would send the men back Saturday, but that a majority expression to the contrary would add to the present railroad tieup by bringing out the shopmen and mechanics of the Central Vermont, Grand Trunk, Maine Central and the Bangor & Aroostook lines.

Railroad managers reported the freight situation as somewhat improved today by the modifications of embargoes made effective yesterday. They said that 70 per cent. of the accepted freight was being moved promptly, but that new restrictions should be expected again because of the depreciation of rolling stock. Passenger service schedules adopted Tuesday remained unchanged. Belief was expressed that even the return of the strikers by Saturday would not permit the resumption of normal service until Monday at least and then it would take several weeks to reduce the accumulation of freight reported from industrial centers and storehouses.

for them to fall in readily with the system in vogue today.

Many of the youngsters brought small wagons and carts to convey their purchases and there were any number of automobiles parked in the spacious yard in front of the workroom throughout the morning. There was hardly that an electric car coming downtown that did not have its quota of purchasers.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson and Robert F. Marden, president of the local chapter of the Red Cross, were on hand bright and early to see that the sale got under way in a proper manner.

W. N. Goodell, the man in general charge of the sale, and Mrs. John K. Whittier, who directed the women volunteers, were also ready for the opening gun and when 9 o'clock rang every detail had been perfected.

At 9:15 there were 75 people standing in the pouring rain in the yard of the old Bigelow-Hurford plant, armed with umbrellas, raincoats, suitcases, valises, bags and all manner of receptacles. It seemed a pity to have them stand in the rain but not one faltered. As one man remarked: "This rain isn't very pleasant but the high cost of living is much more serious."

The food purchasers represented every age and condition of life. Youngsters were there, bearing suitcases as large as themselves and now and then one would spot a bearded gentleman whose general appearance instinctively created the impression that he was from the country. And perhaps he was buying the very food that one day had grown on his own farm. But the great majority of buyers were the omnipresent housewives to whose ears the very term "bargain" has an alluring sound and casts to the wind all thoughts of storm and inclemency. The housewives were there in battalions and years of experience in Lowell's permanent stores made it easy a little dilatory during the first rush quantities and the "petty" sales of 12 and 15 cents evident in the ordinary grocery store were almost entirely missing.

No particular article of food was in especial demand. The purchasers seemed to want to get a little of everything and to try out the meats and vegetables. The 12-pound cans of bacon about which there had been a little resistance sold as rapidly as the other products.

Very few cases of "hogging" were noted during the morning. One man said he wanted to buy two dozen cans of each variety of food on sale, but when President Marden said that he'd better limit it to one dozen, the purchaser readily acquiesced.

The purpose of the sale was to give everybody a chance and not allow small dealers to stock up and sell the government food later at a big profit.

There were few purchases that did not amount to at least a dollar. On the whole, the food was sold in large congratulating themselves that the affair was not being held on the South street, was the only man forwarded

ANOTHER NAVY RECRUIT common as originally planned, because there is little doubt but what considerable damage would have been done to the food as well as to the volunteer salespeople.

What the situation would have been had it been pleasant it is hard to say but speculations were freely made that the carload of food would not have lasted two hours. The ready response to the sale this morning despite the extremely inclement weather was credible evidence that Lowell people want to buy the government's surplus food and will even suffer inconvenience to get it.

The Red Cross will turn over the money it receives from the sale to the city treasurer. The city must pay its bill by Aug. 22, a week from tomorrow, or ten days after the food was delivered here in Lowell.

LABOR UNIONS WERE BITTERLY DENOUNCED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 14.—Although a majority of the delegates made today by Miss Mariana Gage who controls Lowell's ice business and although she is fully aware of the situation in other cities in the state, she does not feel that Lowell people need worry, either about the supply or the price. At the present time local ice consumers pay at the rate of 40 cents for 100 pounds, 25 cents for 50 pounds and 15 cents for 30 pounds, a schedule substantially lower than those in force in other places and which has been in vogue here since April.

PLenty ICE HERE AND PRICE REASONABLE

Although the ice situation in Massachusetts is considered exceedingly grave at present, with the possibility of an actual famine and greatly increased prices in many cities and towns throughout the commonwealth this fall, Lowell faces no such predicament and unless an unprecedented demand is made upon the Gage Co., during the autumn months, the prevailing price locally will not be raised and the present supply will adequately meet the needs.

This is substantially the statement made today by Miss Mariana Gage who controls Lowell's ice business and although she is fully aware of the situation in other cities in the state, she does not feel that Lowell people need worry, either about the supply or the price. At the present time local ice consumers pay at the rate of 40 cents for 100 pounds, 25 cents for 50 pounds and 15 cents for 30 pounds, a schedule substantially lower than those in force in other places and which has been in vogue here since April.

Some idea of the difference in the price of ice to the consumer in Lowell and in other towns may be gained from quoting the schedule now in effect in Peabody, where the price for smallest quantity is a cent a pound and for 95 to 100 pounds the price is 80 cents per 100. This is 100 per cent more than the prevailing prices here.

No matter what figure is offered for ice, additional sources of supply in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are confined to the small amounts that farmers harvested for their own use and which now are being hauled to nearest railroad stations by ox teams.

CLAN GRANT OUTING

At a meeting of the members of Clan Grant, which was held last evening in Post 120 hall, routine business was transacted and the committee in charge of the outing to be held next Saturday, reported that everything was in readiness for the event. It was announced that at the next meeting Royal Chief A. G. Findley of Seattle, Wash., will be in attendance and on that night a reception will be tendered the members of the organization who saw service in the world war.

Become Slender
A Simple, Guaranteed Method

If you would like to lose, weekly, from one to five pounds of dangerous fat while eating and drinking all you need, but living life far better than at present, just follow this advice:

Take seven deep breaths of fresh air each morning and evening; after each meal take a little oil of horseradish, eat all you need, but chew thoroughly, and follow other simple directions of the guaranteed Kordel system.

Men and women who were waddling around with heavy, sluggish bodies have, in many cases, regained a graceful, agreeable robustness. Take seven deep breaths of fresh air each morning and evening; after each meal take a little oil of horseradish, eat all you need, but chew thoroughly, and follow other simple directions of the guaranteed Kordel system.

Here is a charge actually delivered to a jury by the late Chief Justice Carter of the supreme court of the District of Columbia: "Gentlemen of the jury—This is a case in which you have got to guess who is telling the truth among a pack of liars. Take the case." The jury guessed for the government and found the defendant guilty.

Curtis immediately accepted the challenge and declared that while he did not propose to discuss affairs of the Boston police department in the vote, had rejected an amendment of convention, he desired to inform the feds by Delegate Bodfish, providing for compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes. Mr. Bodfish declared that an emergency had developed which demands the attention of the convention. "We are in the midst of an industrial war," he said, "which is rapidly approaching a dangerous situation. There is a constant struggle between employers and employees, which is causing hardship and suffering to many innocent persons, and the people have a right to look to us for relief. My sympathy has always been with labor, because my lot of necessity was cast with that class but I cannot follow them in their apparent determination to resort to unlimited force to gain ends which they fear cannot be attained by the presentation of facts and arguments."

President Bates announced that the convention has been in session 119 days. It has considered 319 matters, of which 22 were referred to the people, and all were adopted.

ADVERTISING AND PROFITEERING

We hear a great deal about profiteering.

Does anyone stop to realize that one of the agencies that fights against the evils of profiteering is the science of advertising?

Profiteering has a rather hard time when the stores of a community—particularly good stores—are bidding for business by means of competitive ads. Each store manager dots up his ad with cut rate specials. Sometimes buying advantageously, he cuts the prices of staples. After he has turned his ad copy, he sits back and wonders if his competitor's ad will show prices lower than his. This is a stumbling block in the path of the profiteer. This is something that benefits the community as a whole and the working man or woman in particular.

This should be taken seriously and regarded as an unassuming, modest but effective public service rendered by all such live afternoon mediums as

LODGE AGAIN

We live in a busy time and many of our wage earners will not have time to follow Senator Lodge's exhaustive account of the movement among nations to try to have a mutual agreement among themselves to secure peace, which he shows started even before the treaty of Utrecht at the beginning of the eighteenth century. Senator Lodge's address Tuesday was scholarly, earnest and instructive. Would that he had been speaking with a better motive behind his address than what we believe was the case.

The republican party is holding an inquest on the League of Nations and to all intents and purposes, the republicans have selected Mr. Lodge to be coroner. We owe it to ourselves to be honest and sincere when we examine what Mr. Lodge said Tuesday about the League of Nations. We need, in these days of skepticism, to at once examine a statesman's motives and first of all, learn why he attacks a proposition. This may be as important as examining the actual method of attack, and particularly so when we see the method of attack is as weak as the attack Senator Lodge uses.

First of all, we ought to recognize that the chief fault of this League of Nations idea is, that it wasn't "born among the elephants." In other words, the republican party had no hand in the beginning of it or assisting it to breathe the breath of life. It lacks republican prestige, republican genius, republican logic, republican foresight—oh, everything that goes with institutions staggering along with the mark of the G. O. P. on them.

Senator Lodge tries to represent he is attacking the League of Nations. He has to attack the League of Nations plan in order to attack President Wilson. President Wilson is his political enemy. He is out to discredit the democratic party in every way he can but he is out to discredit President Wilson the most because he is more afraid of President Wilson than anyone else.

Like any other political demagogue fighting in the last ditch but fighting like a boy. Senator Lodge has taken advantage of his position in the senate to say to this full grown nation, "If you go forward with this League of Nations plan you stand to be in danger of this big man and that big man, both dangerous, and all of them to be feared."

Senator Lodge made no particular headway in pleading a return to real Americanism. George Cohan does the same thing more picturesquely and effectively by waving the American flag—and he gets people to pay to see him do it. The League of Nations plan doesn't encroach on our privileges as Americans. If it were adopted it is admitted that its tenets guarantee us the right to enjoy our American privileges unmolested by invasion from a hostile European country.

The New York World checked up yesterday very neatly when it quoted a paragraph from an address Mr. Lodge made at Union College in June, 1915, nearly a year after the great war started and nearly four years before the covenant of the League of Nations became one of the most remarkable documents in all the history of diplomacy:

"Nations must unite as men unite in order to preserve peace and order. The great nations must be so united as to be able to say to any single country, 'You must not go to war,' and they can say that effectively when the country desiring war knows that the force which the united nations place behind peace is irresistible."

EDWARD S. HOSMER

There is always so much of the spectacular and sacrificing in the lives of firemen that their passing from this life causes more than fleeting thought. This is magnified a hundred fold in the life of Edward S. Hosmer, venerable chief of the Lowell department for 30 years and for more than half a century a fire fighter, which came to a close early Wednesday morning. His life stands as a splendid monument to success through devotion to duty and he will long linger in the memory of the men with whom he worked and came in contact. He was a true chief in the fullest meaning of the word wherein it typifies leadership and the efficiency of the department today is a living result of his earlier efforts toward the formation of a closely knit, harmonious organization. In a large sense the responsibilities pressed upon the head of a city's fire fighting force are paralleled only in few instances throughout the personnel of a community organization. He must possess initiative and unfailing judgment and a personality strong enough to radiate to and attract every man under him. These Mr. Hosmer had in full measure.

A NEW AUTOCRACY?

Autocracy is recognized as an element of selfishness. An autocratic government, for instance, we know, is government exploited for the material benefit of its rulers, the inner circle of despots.

So does this continue down through the line, in cataloging the breeds of autocracy until you come to capitalism. A capitalistic autocracy is autocracy working at its highest speed, grinding grist the finest, hooking the little fish and the big fish, not only "making the traffic carry all it will bear," but lashing the traffic. Capitalistic autocracy is greed and selfishness working on ball bearings.

True enough. But now has the thought occurred to us, that a nation might be menaced by an autocracy of labor? When we speak of labor paramount we instantly think of highly organized labor. If labor were to be diverted into an autocracy of course it would be desired to accomplish it through its concentrated organization, which would be the unions. All of us cannot be capitalists. All of us cannot be members of a labor union. We used to think the capitalists were enclined and their rapaciousness would not menace us. Now we are confronted with this question: Have we an autocracy of labor? If we have, those of us who cannot belong to a union may need a defender.

It seems the submarine Bremen, sister undersigned craft of the Deutschland, was captured by the British and her crew interned three years. Her fate was a mystery to the world and most of all to Germany. The Hun sailors had no idea of what had become of the Bremen and her crew and being Hun they feared the worst,—and were mistaken as usual.

Many newspapermen are trying to be funny at the expense of the actors now on strike in New York. They observe, among other alleged wit, if the players wonder if the ghost will ever walk again. Our feeble attempt is to observe that we suppose no ghost in the future will be recognized unless his card shows he is paid up and in good standing.

One of the interesting questions which arises when the proposition of policemen joining the A. F. of L. is considered, is what would they do if ordered by their superior officer to police a factory where labor troubles existed, and the federation ordered them to stay away? Many men have found it impossible to serve two masters. What luck upon assuming office, himself, take up the burden where his predecessor laid it down. In the case of an instance arising when it seemed mandatory to vary the program to meet a real emergency, such could be done only through vote of the governing council. If that had been done ten years ago our streets would not resemble the battlefields of Flanders today, and what is more, such a system would so entirely please the public that undoubtedly it would insist upon a renewal of the policy when its ten years of work ceased.

That would bring us up to present day, would it not? So why not forget the fact that such a system has not been in vogue, but, better still, imagine that it has and simply map out such a program, put it into effect and call it a renewal. Seriously, it seems that some such plan will be demanded some day and to employ a stereotyped phrase: If eventually, why not now?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

In talking with a friend who has occasion to meet medical men quite frequently the writer learned that in some Massachusetts cities the record of births since the ending of the war shows a great increase in the proportion of the number of boys being born over that of girls and curiosity led to an investigation of the local records. It was found that since the beginning of the present year there have been 55 more boys than girls born in Lowell, the total being 805 boys and 750 girls.

The greatest difference came in the month of March when there were 25 more boys than girls born or 183 boys in comparison with 154 girls. Only in July did the girls outstrip the boys, for there were 111 young lady newcomers in that month and only 103 boys.

One of the interesting though not pleasant developments of the threatened tie-up of the railroads in this vicinity has been the difficulty of the local board of health officials in getting a supply of vaccine points for use in the local dispensary and by doctors on vaccination cases. The vaccine points are furnished by the state board of health, but owing to the possibility of shipments being delayed in transit the board has been hesitant about sending out the points in large numbers and for a while the Lowell supply was at low ebb. Agent O'Hare got in touch with the state officials by telephone and suggested that the vaccine points be brought to Lowell by Dr. Simpson, the state health officer, for this district. Thus was a famine averted in its infancy.

Many shoe workers of this city will remember Everett Ellis, who at one time was foreman of the stock room at the John Pilling Co. Well, Everett has just returned from Europe, where despite his advanced age he has participated in many of the important battles of the great world war. Mr. Ellis was employed in a shoe factory at Hartford, Conn., when the war broke out and after being refused enrollment in the United States army, his age at that time being 55, he went across the line and joined a Canadian regiment, and that only after informing the recruiting officer that his age was 45 years. Well, anyway, Mr. Ellis soon found himself on a ship sailing across the Atlantic and when he landed in England he was sent to a training camp for a few months and later he crossed the channel and swung into the front lines. During his stay in the trenches the "young" soldier was shell shocked twice and also gassed, but nothing daunted, he went back from the hospital to the battle line and fought like the brave Canadian that he is. Mr. Ellis arrived in Lowell a few days ago wearing several decorations and best of all, carrying his pension certificate, which will enable him to take life easy forever. Mr. Ellis is in the best of health and says his experience in France is worth great deal to him. He is now renewing acquaintances in this city and it is fair to assume that wherever he goes he will be given the glad hand.

Her fate was a mystery to the world and most of all to Germany. According to statistics furnished by Charles Marble, the only small fruit dealer in Troy, Kan., this year, he has shipped about $10,000 worth of raspberries and will soon begin on the blackberries. The average price paid for this fruit was $4.25 a crate. The blackberry crop is good and the acreage is much larger than that of raspberries and Mr. Marble predicts that the highest price ever paid will be given to the small fruit growers for their 1918 harvest. Prof. Marble is principal of the Troy schools and versatile man. During the 23 years that he has been connected with the educational work of Doniphan county he has devoted each summer to the growing and shipping of small fruits and writing insurance.

Experienced Drillier

This story is mostly about August—not the month of August, though August is a real, flesh and blood individual, as he would tell you should you ask him.

August has a friend whose name is Jones, who also plays a part in our story; in fact, if it hadn't been for Jones, there wouldn't be any story at all.

Jones is a drill hand—that is, his mechanical bent is towards drills, lathes and such; give him a big drill in a room full of whirling machinery and a pair of overalls and Jones is emphatically in his element.

Jones paid a visit to the Lowell

United States employment bureau this morning—and this same office is getting to be more prolific of little comedies and tragedies than any place we know of, not excepting the movies and asked Examiner Cronin for a position as drill hand.

The examiner found he had a position open for a drill hand in a local plant, talked things over with Jones and the result was that Jones was soon on his way to the plant to begin work.

On the way he met August. August had served with Jones in the army, and the pair exchanged greetings.

Jones told August of his new position, whereupon August allowed that he was a pretty good drillier himself, and being without a job might as well apply for a position in the same plant Jones had been referred to.

So August dropped in at the employment bureau later in the forenoon.

"Yes, I guess we can place you,"

said Mr. Cronin when informed by August that he was looking for a drill hand job. "Yes, there is a chance for a good man; but he must be good."

"What experience have you had?"

He asked as an afterthought.

"I was drilling 14 months in the army," declared August.

In passing it may be said that August didn't get the job; but it is suspected that he did get Mr. Cronin's goat.

P.S.—We don't know what became of August.

Certainly looks as if Pal Moore, American bantam, was a few shades the fresher when this picture of him and the English flyweight, Jimmy Wilde, was taken. It was snapped after the fighters had gone two-thirds of the distance and Wilde is preparing to lead with his left. Wilde's face shows evidence of having undergone a great strain. The accounts of the fight convinced American ring bugs that Moore had the best of the going at all times, but the British referee's decision went to Wilde. The fight was staged in London, July 17.

CHANGE OF LIVING COST JULY, 1914-JULY 1919

The cost of living for American wage earners was 71 per cent. higher in July, 1919, than at the outbreak of the world war in July, 1914, according to a preliminary statement issued today by the national industrial conference board based on a careful survey of conditions the country over. This represents an advance of 6 per cent. since March, 1918, and of 12 per cent. since June, 1918. The increase of 71 per cent. to July, 1919, makes the highest point yet reached and compares with an increase of 61.3

Jury Given Ford-Tribune Case

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 14.—The jury which for three months has been hearing Henry Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Tribune retired today to consider its verdict.

Judge Tucker instructed the jury that the Tribune had the right of fair comment because Ford's position as a great employer of labor and his discussion of the preparedness question made him a public character. The judge held that newspaper had no greater privileges in making comment than an individual.

Teeth Cannot Last

If You Let That Film Remain

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Why Brushed Teeth Discolor and Decay

Millions of people find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. Tartar forms on them. And most people, soon or late, suffer pyorrhea.

Old methods of tooth brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Statistics show that tooth troubles have constantly increased.

Now dentists know the reason. It lies in a film—that slimy film which you feel on your teeth with your tongue. It clings and stays in certain places, particularly in crevices.

That is what discolors—not your teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. "Bacterial plaque" is the dental name for film. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to that film.

The tooth brush used in the old ways leaves much of this film intact. The ordinary dentifrice cannot dissolve it. Soapy tooth pastes even help it to cling.

So much of this film—the great tooth destroyer—has been left to do its damage. Nearly everybody has had teeth wrecked by it, despite the daily brushing.

Dental science has long sought a way to end that film. It has now evolved an efficient film combatant. Able authorities have proved this by many clinical tests. Now, for general use, the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere are urging its adoption.

And we offer you a 10-Day Tube to show its effects.

Now You Can End It In a Pleasant Way

Pepsodent is a dainty tooth paste, based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

This method seems simple, but pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid, harmful to the teeth. So Pepsin long seemed impossible.

Science has made it possible now by the discovery of a harmless activating method. Five governments have already granted patents. That method, used in Pepsodent, has brought about this dental revolution.

The effects of Pepsodent have been proved beyond question. Thousands of tests have been made and watched by experts. Results in some cases have been watched for years.

They are so prompt, so apparent that anyone can prove them. And that is the object of this offer. The stores named below have been supplied with liberal 10-Day Tubes. And they will give you one, entirely free, if you present the coupon this week.

Do this for your own sake—for your children's sake. Use Pepsodent like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Old methods have not ended film—you know that. See if this way does. Few things are more important.

Then decide for yourself what to do in the future. Hundreds of thousands are now making this test, and they do not return to the old ways. Nor will you.

"OUTLAW MILLIONAIRE" HAS PROFIT PLAN

BY ERNEST J. HOPKINS (N.E.A. Staff Correspondent)

"I am an outlaw banker," says Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, millionaire banker.

"I think business is a matter of human beings."

Animated by this idea, Spreckels has lately installed in the two banks under his control, a new sort of profit-sharing plan which rewards the "wheelhorses" of his accounting staff.

Everybody knows the "wheelhorse." He is the man who does the work and misses out on the money. He plods along at desk or bench or machine, year in and year out—plods until he gets grey-haired and bent, and slow and old. He isn't flashy—he has nothing but his faithfulness and his capacity for drudgery. All the wheelhorses do is—work.

"America's business and manufacturing world," says Spreckels, "are crammed full of men of this type. Their name is legion—therefore their salaries are low."

"But—

"God knows what the bank, or the store, or the factory, would do without them! It is these slow-going plodders that drag the peak-loads of industry."

Rewards Loyalty

Profit-sharing plans, Spreckels ex-

ADVISE WILSON ON FOOD CRISIS

WASHINGTON, August 14.—Four of President Wilson's advisors in the present food crisis were snapped in the midst of an informal conference over the high cost of living. Left to right—the men wearing hats—they are: Walker D. Hines, director-general of railroads; William B. Colver, member of the federal trade commission; William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, and Victor Murdock, member of the federal trade commission.

plans have always been unjust to these faithful workers, being so framed that the low-salaried man, no matter what his term of service, gets the small slice of bacon.

"So I set out to devise a plan that would take length of service into account and reward loyalty as well as brilliancy," Spreckels narrates.

"Though in force only since the beginning of the year, I can state emphatically that it has worked a small revolution in our banks. The rank and file know that the brilliant fellows will not walk away with all the plums."

Spreckels' plan calls for the annual setting aside of 20 per cent of the bank's net profits to be distributed among the men each January 1. The remaining 80 per cent goes into a fund to strengthen the bank, on the theory that this also benefits the men by insuring them permanent employment.

Half of the smaller sum is divided among the men in proportion to their pay—the usual plan. But the other half is divided in relation, not only to salary, but to each man's years of service.

Suppose, for example, that all salaries added together make $500,000 for the year. Divide each man's salary by $500,000, and you get his fraction of the first half of the fund.

Suppose that all their years of service, added together, make 1500 years. Multiply this by the above gross salary-roll, and you get the figures 750,000. Now take any man's salary, multiply it by his years of service—as for example $2400 times 20 years—and you get the figure $48,000. This man will receive, of the second half of the fund, the fraction $48,000 over 750,000, or 6.4 percent.

This is the Spreckels profit-sharing plan in a nutshell.

Cure for Burest

"Before we put this plan into effect with our 175 employees in the First National bank of San Francisco and the First Federal Trust company," says Spreckels, "our officers had to keep the usual strict watch on such matters as punctuality, courtesy to patrons, efficiency and so on. When a man was discharged, naturally his side-partners resented it and felt the usual discontent.

"But today all that is changed. Each man is disciplined by his fellows who work alongside of him.

"It is a far better, far more human type of discipline than the old way. What is more, it works.

"I regard this spirit of good feeling between a firm and its employees, as the secret of its popular demand.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared; could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

MUNICIPAL MOVIES
The South common presented a lively scene last evening when the weekly exhibition of municipal movies was held under the auspices of the park commission. Several thousand men, women and children gathered on one of the slopes and the excellent photoplays were thoroughly enjoyed. The jazz band of the U.S.S. North Dakota was once more on hand to supplement the program musically and with Edward "Tip" Handley directing the crowd in the singing of several popular numbers, the affair was a success from beginning to end.

LOWELL FOR RIVER PLAN

Large Delegation Attends Merrimack Reservoir Hearing at Manchester

(Special to The Sun.)

MATCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 14.—Further exploitation of the project to obtain information bearing upon the desirability of establishing a system of reservoirs in the basin of the Merrimack river took place here yesterday at a public meeting called by Col. Francis R. Shunk of the United States Engineer Corps, war department, and in which Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Engineer Stafford and John M. O'Donoghue, of Lowell, took an active part. The assembly, while not large, was representative of the interests to be benefited should it be found advisable to construct such a storage basin as is proposed at or near the headquarters of the Merrimack river.

Succinctly stated, the enterprise proposes to increase the depth of the river and bring about a more uniform flow of water, and curtail the periods of drought and of freshet by means of establishing storage reservoirs at or near the source of the river.

Col. Gilbert Van B. Wilkes, assistant in the offices of the United States District Engineers in Boston, presided and stated the lines along which the United States government desired information, to wit: The benefits to be derived from reservoirs in the way of navigation, power development, flood control, and irrigation; the amount of damage which might be entailed by their construction and operation; the extent to which local interests could be depended upon to contribute to the cost, and the relative advantages to as is proposed. Engineer Stafford of

be derived by federal control, state supervision, or private control.

Col. Wilkes said that the government was interested in the storage reservoir problem only so far as it might prove beneficial to navigation, and that the larger part of the expense, should such a system be decided upon, would have to be borne by the mill owners.

Congressman Rogers stated that the congressional delegation from both Massachusetts and New Hampshire were deeply interested in the proposed reservoir storage proposition and could be relied upon to assist in the realization of the aims sought to the best of their ability. It was said by the speaker that it was perfectly obvious that the two states must cooperate heartily and that the federal government should lend its counsel and material aid. It was through action on the part of the federal government that the interests of Massachusetts and New Hampshire must be brought together. Neither state could accomplish anything worthy of note by acting alone and the national government must assume the role of senior advisor. Congressman Rogers said:

"The questions of droughts and freshets can be solved by a system of reservoirs. The summer flow of water can be doubled, and the damage by spring freshets eliminated. We have got to have the project translated into terms of dollars and the figures made by the government engineers would be accepted where others would not be. This project will not die. The board of trade of Lowell is very much interested. We believe in it from the standpoints of health, power and navigation."

John M. O'Donoghue pledged the backing of the Lowell board of trade and of the municipality of Lowell in the development of the storage reservoir idea, and asserted that vast benefits in various ways would flow from the realization of such an enterprise.

LONDON COMMENT ON GREY'S APPOINTMENT

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Viscount Grey's appointment as temporary ambassador to the United States is approved by most of the public but there is criticism in some quarters.

The Daily News criticizes the government for making an "emergency appointment" and adds:

"To choose a statesman who for more than two years has been out of touch with active political life is, to say the least, a singular proceeding."

The Post hopes that Viscount Grey will not forget Americans respect a man who stands firmly upon the rights and interests of his own nation. In the past, there has been a weak tradition of surrender at Washington, due mainly to the pusillanimous and unmanly policy of the government at home."

In most of the editorials, Viscount Grey's sympathy with the league of nations is dwelt upon though the Telegraph remarks he had not revealed whether he champions the particular form of the league incorporated in the peace treaty.

The Chronicle says: "With his rare tact and knowledge, he will be especially qualified to take counsel both with President Wilson and those who are not satisfied with all the terms of the league of nations covenant."

As regards the league the Daily that Great Britain could have no better representative than Viscount Grey, it adds, however: "This path will not be smoothed by the government's sustained refusal to make any approach to a solution of the Irish problem."

Ward's ORANGE-CRUSH

Hillsdale, N. Y., where a funeral coach was in waiting. This car was attached to the regular train of the New York Central Railroad leaving at 1:00 o'clock this afternoon for Tarrytown. Thence the body was to be taken by automobile to Sleepy Hollow for interment in a lot chosen by Mr. Carnegie some years ago.

The service at Shadow Brook was held in the great reception room on the first floor at the east end of the mansion overlooking Lake Mahkeenac, one of the beauty spots of the wonderful estate and where Mr. Carnegie had spent many happy hours at his favorite pastime of angling.

The body reposed in a severely plain casket placed in the center of the room and all but hidden in a wealth of floral pieces. The mahogany of the casket was covered with heavy black broadcloth. A small name plate of silver bore only the inscription: "Andrew Carnegie, born at Dunfermline, Scotland, November 25, 1835. Died Lenox, Mass., August 11, 1919."

Just before 10:30 o'clock this morning, the hour set for the funeral, those who were to hear the last rites entered the room and grouped themselves about the casket.

With Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter, Mrs. Roswell Miller, who were in conventional mourning, were the daughter's husband, Ensign Miller, Mrs. Carnegie, Miss Estella Whitefield, Mrs. Carnegie's sister, Mrs.

Morris Johnson, a niece of Mr. Carnegie, his nephews, Andrew and Morris Carnegie, Mrs. Carnegie's private secretary, Archibald Barrow, and John Poynton, who long had served the master of the house in a similar capacity.

Notable Representatives

Next in the circle were notable representatives of those who had helped the industrial giant to make his millions and others who had helped the philanthropist distribute the major part of those millions for humanitarian purposes. Among these were Chas. M. Schwab, once president of the Carnegie Steel Co.; Robert A. Franks, business adviser of the iron master for many years, treasurer of the Carnegie corporation and of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching; Rev. Frederick H. Lynch, who represented the Carnegie Peace Foundation during the peace conference at Paris and Oliver Ricketson. Others intimately associated with the family were Mrs. Henry Phipps, wife of Mr. Carnegie's old partner in the steel business and her son, Howard; Dr. R. S. Woodward, president of the Carnegie Institution at Washington; Elihu Root, Jr., representing his father in the matter of the Carnegie endowment for international peace and James C. Greenway and his wife and Arthur A. Hamerling, director of the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh.

Seated near these were all those of the household who had ministered to the home comforts of the master of the house. Many of these had been long in the employ of the family.

The clergymen wearing gowns stood at the head of the casket and back of them were the members of the quartet directed by Clarence Dickenson, organist of the Brick Presbyterian church. The singers were Miss Rose Bryant, Miss Marie Stoddard, Frank Croxton and Grant Kimball.

The service opened with the singing of "O, Love, That Will Not Let Me Go." Rev. Mr. Wyman recited the two prayers of the ritual and followed these with the Lord's prayer. The quartet then sang "He Leadeth Me." Dr. Merrill read the passages appointed from the Psalms and the service closed with the singing of "Crossing the Bar." As the voices of the singers died away, the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Merrill.

Rain fell heavily throughout the early morning, but shortly before the funeral hour the skies gave signs of clearing.

Report Death Mask Taken

A death mask of Mr. Carnegie was said to have been taken last night by Augustus Lukeman of New York, but members of the household declined to give any information on the matter.

JOHNSON IN BOSTON ON MAYS CASE

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—President Ban Johnson of the American league was in Boston yesterday looking up some matters in connection with the Mays case that he proposes to present tomorrow to the court in New York before which he has been summoned to show cause why the temporary injunction recently issued should not be made permanent.

The temporary injunction President Johnson was enjoined from interfering with the New York club in using Carl Mays as a player.

Mr. Johnson said he did not care to make any comment on the case since it was now in the hands of the court, he wished to be tried there so long as it could not have been settled out of court and not in the newspapers.

He had no objection, however, to Mays for whom he regarded as a breach of contract which, if condoned, would be held result in grave injury to the game and to the business.

In regard to the release of star players by clubs which were in the race for the championship from those which were out of it, in the latter stages of the contest, Mr. Johnson said the matter had been discussed last winter but unfortunately had been left in abeyance.

This practice, he was sure, would be prohibited in both leagues at their next annual meetings.

BELLEVUES ASK "WHAT'S THE IDEA?"

Billie Hartnett, manager of the Bellevue B. & B. club, is out with a blanket challenge to the B. & M. and K. of C. to meet his team in a series of games for a purse of money.

Spaniard park and has the following to say regarding events in the past, present and future:

"The Bellevues would like to know why a series of games with either the B. & M. or K. of C. cannot be arranged. The car shop boys have recently finished a series of games with the K. of C., now in claim to the city amateur title. They refuse to play the Bellevues, who already have an 8 to 0 victory over them, gained on May 24. Manager Reynolds of the car shop has had several appointments with the manager of the Bellevues, but has failed to meet the manager. Captain of the Knights promised the Bellevues a series after the St. Peter's series, but has failed to come through. The Bellevues challenge either and both of them to a series of games and will match them to a sum of money they see fit to put up."

In Coatesville the public safety wagon, formerly used to haul drunks to the lock-up, is now being used as an omnibus to the ball park.

RED VICTORY WOULD BE POPULAR

Seems everyone is pulling for the Reds to win but the New York Giants, New York city and seven baseball magnates.

Everything comes John McGraw's way excepting his all of victories. The Reds somehow manage to keep his appetite unappeased in that respect.

But if John wants a new pitcher or two, a new infielder, a new catcher or a new slugging outfielder, he has but to make the want known and some other club in the league will answer his S.O.S.

I think the answer lies in a frank statement from a manager in the league race the other day. I am not mentioning his name for I do not believe he meant for me to quote him.

"Why shouldn't New York win the pennant?" he said. "Don't they pay the freight there?"

New York and Chicago furnishes the real crowds and keeps baseball going. If it wasn't for the big crowds in New York some of the other clubs would have a hard time making both ends meet. New York pays the money for the pennants they demand."

That is why John McGraw gets about what he wants. A few weeks ago he decided he needed another first class catcher. He got Frank Snyder one of the very best in the game today, from the St. Louis Cards.

Then he wanted a pitcher and he got Phil Douglass from the Cubs. The Cubs got an outfielder—Dave Robertson—in the deal. The Cubs needed an outfielder. But it was a one-sided deal. The Cubs were supposed to be in the race and up fighting for the flag. Even had they not needed Douglass they helped the Giants out by turning him over to them. And the Giants didn't lose an ounce of strength by parting with Robertson for he wasn't playing with them. He was at his home in Virginia. So it was a bad deal from a Cub stand point though Fred Mitchell says he is satisfied.

McGraw wanted another pitcher and he got Art Nehf from the Boston Braves.

Baseball fans like to see a pennant won on the field. When one team in the league, realizing it may not be able to keep to the front with its present lineup, takes its pick from the other clubs, it doesn't leave a pleasing taste in the mouths of the general run of fans.

The Reds need men, too. They've needed an outfielder all year. Other club owners would not help the Reds out unless they received huge sums of money. The Reds haven't the money the Giants have. They can't take their pick of the other six National league clubs.

The Reds forged to the front with the team they started with. They're a fighting baseball outfit and all credit is due them and their manager, Pat Moran.—Fred Turhyville.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Price changes in stocks were confusing at the opening today. Losses exceeded gains. Advances of 1 to 2 points were made by Crucible Steel, American Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive, Sinclair Oil, Pan-American Petroleum, American International and American Telephone. The market became more irregular before the end of the first half hour on account of the Steel.

There was slight inquiry for some recent favorites and the shorts, taking their cue from the backwardness of United States Steel, pressed for advantage. As an instance, Jewel Tea was offered at 5 1/2 points, comparatively little above its 6 point decline. In the main the efforts of the bears proved fairly successful as the session progressed. Tobacco stocks were especially vulnerable and rails turned heavily with shipping and rail equipment. Parallel railroads set in just before noon, however, brought a movement of the increased American Locomotive dividend. Call money opened at 5 to 5 1/2 per cent.

One led the mid-day rally, rising one to three points. American Telephone, one of the most popular stocks, was reflected further support, but rails, shipping, equipments, motors and metals were erratic. American Locomotive fell four points under its best of the morning. Active selling undermined the list. The last of the other average prices fell to lowest levels of the day. The closing was weak.

BOWLING ALLEYS FOR SERVICE CLUB

The Lowell War Camp Community Service club in Button street has sent a request to the New York headquarters of War Camp work asking that sufficient funds be allotted to the general director, B. S. Ponzzner, to allow him to install a set of bowling alleys in the basement of the club. Although no word has been received from the general headquarters as yet, it is confidently believed that the necessary money will be forthcoming and that the recreational equipment of the club will receive a splendid addition.

The Community Service club at Ayer has a set of bowling alleys which are available for use in Lowell and it is Mr. Ponzzner's plan to obtain them.

A number of service men have called at the local clubs for identification cards which will admit them to the recently opened club at Salisbury beach and allow them to enjoy the privileges of that recreation building.

A large group of entertainers, led by Miss Neill Blaisdell will go to Camp Devens tomorrow evening to sing for the convalescent soldiers in the base hospital.

For Investigation at Smyrna

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Rear Admiral Bristow, commander of the United States naval forces in Turkey has been designated as the American naval member of the inter-allied naval commission appointed to investigate incidents connected with the occupation of Smyrna by Greek and other allied forces.

o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Quincy house, Boston, to discuss the 12 per cent. wage increase awarded these employees by the war labor board.

The members of the joint conference board had not returned to Boston last night from New York where the board was in conference when the award was handed down. James H. Vane, general counsel for the association, who arrived in Boston, announced the calling of the special meeting.

While the members of the conference board agreed to abide by the award, it is feared the members of the unions will not back up their representatives in this agreement, and a demand will be made at the meeting tomorrow afternoon to reject the award and present a demand to the trustees of the company for an immediate wage increase to equal the wage now paid Boston Elevated employees, under threat of an immediate strike.

It was said by the union officials before they left for Washington and New York that they feared a break if the award were not satisfactory.

It is believed that the conference board tomorrow will issue instructions for meetings of the 16 local unions, for the purpose of learning what the members wish to do about accepting or rejecting the award.

receive at least as much as Carmen in Fall River, Holyoke, N. Bedford and other cities, and he agreed with the claim of other union officials that a mistake was made and 12 cents an hour increase was meant instead of 12 per cent. raise.

In New Bedford, President Powers said, the men are getting 55 cents an hour, and this with a five-cent fare still in force. In Holyoke, too, the rate is 55 cents. In Fall River the men are receiving 57 cents an hour. If the local men were awarded the 12 cent increase, instead of the 12 per cent, they, too, would get 57 cents an hour.

President Powers says the award will give the men a little more than 50 cents an hour, to be exact, 50 and two-fifths. This he claims is unreasonable, when men performing similar work in other cities are getting much better wages. He says that the men of other divisions are a unit in opposing acceptance of the award.

A special meeting of the joint conference board of the 16 local unions of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, the members of whom are employed on the Bay State Street Railway company, will be held at 2
